The Mission of Good Books

THE message above is intended to make every possible buyer of books for boys and girls pause and consider how important it is to provide children with the right kind of reading. It is an inspiration to prompt the buying of good books for boys and girls. The thought of entertainment, amusement and at the same time the thought of building character is appealing.

The Display Screen shown above is in four colors and presents a most attractive appearance. If placed in your window with the richly colored Rand McNally books as a foreground it will do its part in bringing people into your store. They will want to see the books and examine them more closely for content, illustrations, binding and price. A copy of this display will be furnished gratis on request.

Third printing. A virile romance. Endorsed by librarians—lauded by the press. A book to recommend.

_____ ★The Studio Murder Mystery. By A. C. and Carmen Edington.....Net 2.00
A really different mystery novel: the scene laid on a Hollywood "lot." The authors have been in the "movie game"; they know their onions; this brilliant, exciting book gives a vivid picture of life in a moving picture colony.

_____ ★The Spite Fence. By Emma Speed Sampson, author of the "Miss Minerva Books," "Mammy's White Folks," etc.....Net 2.00
Rich Southern color is given to Mrs. Sampson's new novel in the Virginia setting and the authentic negro dialect of Mandy and the quaintly humorous philosophy of old Aunt Phoebe.

_____ ★People Will Talk. By Margaret Lee Runbeck.....Net 2.50
An X-ray into the dramatic life of a family that outwardly seemed to know no drama.
They had $25.00 a week but they were millionaires in love. Mother saved a man from destruction; Father kissed and tried to forget; Daughter nearly broke her heart over a married man. And yet life ran so smoothly that everyone thought they were humdrum people. All because "people will talk." (Ready Sept. 10.)

_____ The Handsome Man. By Margaret Turnbull.....Net 2.00
Miss Turnbull's novel is a dashing romance, filled with action, sparkling with humor and brilliant in characterization.

_____ Spears In The Sun. By James E. Baum, of the Field Museum-Chicago Daily News Expedition to Abyssinia.....Net 2.00
A tremendously exciting story of adventure and romance in a new and little known country, the wild highlands of Forbidden Abyssinia.

_____ Spring Tides. By R. E. Pinkerton.....Net 2.00
The scenes are laid in the Pacific Northwest—the society of British Columbia.

_____ The Black Fan. By Mary Boyle O'Reilly.....Net 1.25
A brilliant story of the court intrigues of an ambitious woman who awakened the war Juggernaut of 1914.

The "Miss Minerva" Books

ACCOUNTING AND AUDITING

ACCOUNTANTS' HANDBOOK. Edited by EARL A. SALIERS, Professor of Accounting, Northwestern University. 1596 pp., $7.50. A handy, quick reference manual, that brings together in condensed form basic information covering entire range of accounting principles and accepted practice. Also related subjects such as credit, collections, business law, banking, and office method. Covers a range of essential topics wider than in any other one book in the field. As necessary in the modern office as any piece of labor-saving equipment. 32 sections—law, mathematics, corporations, financial statements, valuation, depreciation, finance, credits, consolidations, installations, insolvency and receivership, municipal accounting, public utilities, office practice, office appliances, foreign exchange accounting, etc., with over 290 illustrative forms. Each section has been compiled by a capable specialist. Mass of information made readily available by an exhaustive index. Over 70,000 copies now in use.

GREER. How to Understand Accounting. By HOWARD C. GREER, Professor of Accounting, Ohio State University. 255 pp., $3.00. Designed to give anyone in business a working knowledge of the various branches of the subject. Written from the standpoint of the executive. Covers fundamental principles; simple record keeping; classification and valuation; cost accounting; auditing and internal check; and budgetary control. Contains 32 diagrams and forms.

BEACH. Twenty 20-Minute Lessons in Bookkeeping. By FRANK LOOMIS BEACH, C.P.A., Cashier, Hibernia Commercial & Savings Bank, Portland, Ore. 124 pp., $1.50. An effective "Pocket Course." Clear, easy explanation of keeping fundamental books; and of inventories, profit and loss accounts, balance sheets, and the like. 20 review problems and solutions.

CANNING. The Economics of Accountancy—A Critical Analysis of Accounting Theory. By JOHN B. CANNING, Associate Professor of Economics, Stanford University. 400 pp., $5.00. A critical, analytical study which raises many interesting questions in regard to the effect on statistics commonly used in economic analyses, of certain accounting procedures, particularly those of accountants in public practice. Based on a wide range of examples covering many different types of enterprise and industry.

KOOPMAN-KESTER. Fundamentals of Accounting. By S. B. KOOPMAN, C.P.A., Head of Department of Accounting and Law, Theodore Roosevelt High School, New York; and ROY B. KESTER, C.P.A., Professor of Accounting, Columbia University. Thorough, high-school bookkeeping text, developed on accounting principles, and working back into the accounts from an understanding of the balance sheet. Volume I. 496 pp., $1.75. Practice Journal and Ledger, 36 cents. Volume II. 525 pp., $1.75. Practice Blanks, $1.95.

KESTER. Accounting Theory and Practice. By ROY B. KESTER, C.P.A., Professor of Accounting, Columbia University. A series of college texts constituting a graded development of accounting principles and their specific application.

Volume I. 625 pp., $3.50. Practice Blanks, $2.00. Explains fundamental principles, using the financial statement as starting point. Sets forth definite procedures, describing and illustrating chief books, explaining handling of transactions, posting, trial balance, etc.

Volume II. 855 pp., $4.50. Practice Blanks, $2.00. Devoted primarily to accounting and financial problems of the corporation, laying special emphasis on valuation in balance sheets, and explaining nature of each asset and liability.

Volume III. 718 pp., $5.00. Shows accounting applications to various forms of business and industry—savings banks, department stores, mines, foreign exchange, advertising agencies, hotels, etc.

HIMMELBLAU. Complete Accounting Course. Prepared by members of faculty of Northwestern University. Edited by DAVID HIMMELBLAU, Professor of Accounting and Head of Department of Accounting. College text material organized into 6 "units" of 15 lectures each, each constituting a self-contained semester's work. Lecture units are in form of pamphlets, punched for insertion in binders, and include text for study, problem assignments and solutions to previous problems. Practice blanks are available at additional charge.

Unit I. Fundamentals of Accounting. By DAVID HIMMELBLAU. $2.50. Blanks, $1.50. Covers problems of an ordinary trading business.

Unit II. Principles of Accounting. By DAVID HIMMELBLAU. $2.50. Blanks, $1.50. Deals with ordinary problems of a manufacturing establishment, a large business and corporation.

Unit III. Intermediate Accounting. By EARL A. SALIERS. $3.50. Special problems discussed, stressing form of statements, bases of valuation, capital and income.

Unit IV. Auditing. By ERNEST COULTER DAVIES. $4.00. Illustrates standard procedure through coordinated set of working papers.

Unit V. Advanced Accounting. By JOHN V. TINEN. $5.00. Field of advanced accounting.

Unit VI. Advanced Auditing—Financial Investigations. By DAVID HIMMELBLAU. $6.00. Problems dealt with are of an advanced character.

WOODBRIDGE. Elements of Accounting. By FREDERICK W. WOODBRIDGE, Professor of Accounting, University of Southern California. 700 pp., $4.50. Practice Blanks, $2.50. Work Sheets, 95 cents. A college text for students taking only one year of the subject, stressing its relation to economics. Concerned less with detailed accounting technique than with accounts as the expression of financial and operating facts and policies. Contains 75 forms, diagrams, and charts.

JACKSON. Auditing Problems. By J. HUGH JACKSON, Professor of Accounting, Stanford University. About 610 pages, $6.00. An excellent college textbook for a comprehensive course in auditing procedure, containing 99 problems for solution in a manner approximating the conditions of professional practice. The problems illustrate a wide variety of actual business situations in representative lines of business. Accountants will also find in this volume much of very practical value for their professional work.

GREELEY. Business Accounting. Edited by HAROLD DUDLEY GREELEY, Attorney at Law, Lecturer on Estate Accounting and Taxation, Columbia University. 2458 pp., $14.00. Graded course of 5 volumes for home study. Gives a working knowledge of principles, structure and operation of accounts.

Volume I. Theory of Accounts. By HAROLD DUDLEY GREELEY.

Volume II. Constructive Accounting. By GEORGE E. BENNETT, Professor and Head of Department of Accounting, Syracuse University.

Volume III. Cost Accounting. By DEWITT CARL EGGLESTON, C.P.A., Assistant Professor of Cost Accounting, College of the City of New York.

ESQUERRÉ. Applied Theory of Accounts. By PAUL-JOSEPH ESQUERRÉ, C.P.A., Director of the Post-Graduate School of Accountancy, New York; author of "Accountancy" and "Practical Accounting Problems" (descriptions below). 575 pp., $5.00. One of the most interesting, popular, and widely read accounting books ever published.

ESQUERRÉ. Accounting. By PAUL-JOSEPH ESQUERRÉ, author of "Applied Theory of Accounts" (description above). 369 pp., $4.50. A second stimulating, thought-provoking book dealing with major accounting problems of business administration, where the accountant must work out his problem, not on the basis of formula or precedents of others, but on that of the conditions existing and objects to be accomplished in each case, pushing ahead of stereotyped methods and developing new ones as required. Deals primarily with advanced financial statements, consolidations, valuation of tangibles and intangibles, investments, inventories, sinking funds, capital stock, and profits.

ESQUERRÉ. Practical Accounting Problems. By PAUL-JOSEPH ESQUERRÉ, author of "Applied Theory of Accounts" and "Accounting" (see above descriptions). Part I, 353 pp., $10.00. Part II, 356 pp., $10.00. Together, $15.00. Problems and discussions of their solution developed by the author as a preparation for examinations or practice work. Very popular and helpful on account of stress laid on developing reliance on one's own analytical power, logic, and resourcefulness. Part I contains 20, and Part II, 30 problems. Facsimile typewritten form.

DICKINSON. Accounting Practice and Procedure. By SIR ARTHUR LOWES DICKINSON, C.P.A., of Price, Waterhouse & Co., New York and London. 309 pp., $4.00. Consists of a series of discussions, by an accountant of very wide experience, on important accounting problems—treatment of fixed property, investments, reserves, inventories, capital stock, bonded debt, contingent liabilities, repairs, renewals, depreciation, new construction, etc.

PATON. Accounting Theory. By W. A. PATON, Professor of Accounting, University of Michigan. 508 pp., $4.00. Restates accounting theory from the standpoint of the incorporated enterprise, substituting managerial for the proprietory point of view. Explains basic principles of expense and revenue; account classification; true significance of debit and credit, goodwill and going value; certain problems of valuation; real nature of stock and bond discounts, treasury stock, dividends in stocks and other securities.

SPRAGUE. The Philosophy of Accounts. By CHARLES EZRA SPRAGUE, late President, Union Dime Savings Bank, and Professor of Accounting, New York University. 186 pp., $2.50. An accounting classic dealing with the logic of the subject. Widely regarded as one of the fundamental books with which every accountant should be familiar. 57 forms.

BELL. Accountants' Reports. By WILLIAM H. BELL, C.P.A., of Haskins & Sells, New York. 386 pp., $6.00. Detailed description of best practice in form, arrangement, and content. Gives definite standards of terminology; explains nice points in handling each item; and points out variations from the usual forms required in various lines of business. 70 representative statements and reports, with 7 additional statements, reproduced. For private and public accountants.

PALMER-BELL. Accountants' Working Papers. By LESLIE E. PALMER, C.P.A., and WILLIAM H. BELL, C.P.A., members of firm of Haskins & Sells, New York. Revised Edition. 313 pp., $6.00. All schedules, analyses, and papers required in the ordinary audit, with many for special conditions and purposes, as in connection with tax returns and new financing. Gives also a complete, correlated set of working papers for an individual audit. Book includes 156 specimen work sheets with brief comment on each.

HIMMELBLAU. Auditors' Certificates. By DAVID HIMMELBLAU, C.P.A., Professor of Accounting, Northwestern University. 153 pp., $2.50. 92 certificates from practice, with concise comments, and discussion of their form, phraseology, analysis, testing, and use.

BENNETT. Corporation Accounting. By R. J. BENNETT, C.P.A. 563 pp., $5.00. Covers fully all transactions, accounts, and entries peculiar to corporations.

NEWLOVE. Consolidated Balance Sheets. By GEORGE HILLIS NEWLOVE, C.P.A., Professor of Accounting, University of Texas. 309 pp., $6.00. Exhaustive working manual on technique of construction. Organizes best practice of the day into 41 rules, supported by 136 cases. Illustrates both "cost value" and "actual value" methods. Discusses also special methods for preparing consolidated profit and loss statements.

YANG. Goodwill and Other Intangibles. By J. M. YANG, Ph.D. 238 pp., $4.50. A thorough study of the financial significance and accounting treatment of goodwill, patents, trade-marks, trade-names, copyrights, franchises, and other intangibles.

SALIERS. Depreciation. By EARL A. SALIERS, Professor of Accounting, Northwestern University. 590 pp., $5.00. Summarizes and interprets approved practice and methods in handling depreciation. Explains every aspect of the subject as a practical financial and accounting problem, covering fully obsolescence, amortization, depletion, plant ledger, depreciation in public utilities, etc. Numerous references to court decisions, regulative commissions, other authorities. 13 charts, schedules.

Covers completely the important problems of organizing the routine of accounting under machine processes and of choosing and applying the most suitable machines. Discusses impartially the characteristics and applications of available types of accounting machines; charts and explains in detail the accepted routines for all ordinary paper work and accounting processes under machine methods. A guide to follow from making the preliminary survey of a company's needs to devising, improving, and operating the completed system of machined records. Includes 105 charts and forms.

PINKERTON. Accounting for Surplus. By PAUL W. PINKERTON, of Ellis, Pinkerton & Co. 120 pp., $2.00. Explains general nature of surplus, and discusses various types, such as paid-in, earned, surplus arising from treasury stock transactions, etc.

MONTGOMERY. Auditing: Theory and Practice. By ROBERT H. MONTGOMERY, C.P.A., Counselor-at-Law; of Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery; Past President, American Association of Public Accountants. Fourth Edition. 859 pp., $6.00. For over fifteen years this volume, in its successive editions, has been the standard American work on auditing. This edition is a complete rewriting which takes into account the radical changes in recent years in the auditor's work, viewpoint, and methods. The volume gives the best accepted standards of practice in making both balance sheet and detailed audits; is packed with suggestions giving a basis for judgment in preparing statements, certificates and reports; and summarizes the highest professional accounting opinion as regards the best accounting, business and financial policy under today's conditions. 34 approved statements and forms.

Note: Still available: Volume II (Third Edition). 559 pp., $4.00. This section of the previous edition has been kept in print. It gives specific suggestions for audit procedure in over 60 different lines of business. (The Fourth Edition covers general theory and practice.)

MONTGOMERY-STAUB. Auditing Principles. By ROBERT H. MONTGOMERY, and WALTER A. STAUB, C.P.A., of Lybrand,

Ross Brothers & Montgomery. 494 pp., $3.50. A college textbook based on Montgomery's "Auditing Theory and Practice."

BACAS. Auditing Practice Set. By PAUL E. BACAS, C.P.A., Instructor in Accounting, New York University. $2.75. To be used with "Auditing Principles," by Montgomery and Staub. It provides a unique combination of text material and drill work, taking the student through the same auditing procedure he would encounter in a professional engagement.

The only complete consideration of relative advantages and disadvantages arising in the treatment of interest in the computation of costs.

AERONAUTICS

JONES. Practical Flying. By B. Q. JONES, Major, U. S. Army. 210 pp., $3.00. A progressive training manual for airplane pilots, of elementary and advanced instruction in flying. By a famous flyer who has been in charge of training thousands of successful pilots. Illustrated.

CLARK. Elements of Aviation. By COLONEL V. E. CLARK, formerly Chief Aeronautical Engineer, U. S. Army. 193 pp., $3.00. Explains, on the basis of a few fundamental laws of physics, everything that can happen to an airplane in flight as regards stability and control. Will give anyone a clear understanding of the reasons why an airplane flies; why it is stable or unstable, controllable or uncontrollable, in various attitudes and conditions. For the practical pilot, beginner and student. 24 drawings, charts.

BENNETT. Aviation: Its Commercial and Financial Aspects. By RICHARD REA BENNETT. 127 pp., $3.00. This new book supplies an authoritative, unbiased analysis of the financial and commercial status of aviation and the indications of future trends which concern the investor, banker, manufacturer, and all others interested in aviation. The various phases of this new industry are surveyed to reveal both its features of strength and its weaknesses. Whether you are interested in aviation as an investor, or as an active participant in the industry, you will find the information supplied by this book helpful in avoiding pitfalls and in taking advantage of opportunities. 4 illustrations.

GREGG. Aeronautical Meteorology. By WILLIS RAY GREGG, Senior Meteorologist in Charge of Aerological Division, United States Weather Bureau. 144 pp., $2.50. Furnishes all the information needed to understand weather maps at a glance and use local observations for immediate forecasts of weather probabilities with their application to flying conditions that are likely to be encountered. 49 illustrations, charts and maps.

RAMSEY. The Navigation of Aircraft. By LOGAN C. RAMSEY, Lieut., U. S. Navy. In preparation.

EATON AND OTHERS. Aircraft Instruments. By HERBERT N. EATON, and OTHERS, Aeronautic Instruments Section, Bureau of Standards. 269 pp., $5.00. Describes and explains over 175 types and makes of aircraft instruments. Includes technical data, manipulation, advantages and disadvantages, etc. Used by designers, instrument manufacturers, executives of air transport companies, pilots and mechanics. 68 illustrations and drawings.

JONES AND OTHERS. Aircraft Power Plants. By E. T. JONES, Chief Engineer, Wright Aeronautical Corporation; and OTHERS. 208 pp., $4.25. Explains and compares various types of engines and accessories and their performance characteristics. Practical notes on operating features. Describes ignition systems, carburetors, radiators, fuel piping, pumps, reversing mechanisms, superchargers, etc.; covers lubrication, quality of engine fuels, design of air propellers, etc. 104 illustrations, drawings and charts.

DUKE. Airports and Airways. By DONALD DUKE, Lieut. U. S. Army; formerly in charge of Boston Airport; formerly Chief of the Airway Section, Army Air Corps. 178 pp., $5.00. Provides complete information on cost and establishment, operation, and maintenance of airports and airways. Points out ways to assure proper procedure and prevent costly mistakes in handling any city's air traffic problem. 67 illustrations, drawings, and maps.

HANKS. International Airports. By STEDMAN S. HANKS, Lieut. Colonel, Air Corps Reserve. 195 pp., $5.00. Up-to-the minute, detailed information on the best European airport practice, which in many respects is considerably ahead of even the newest American airports. Much of material never before published. Covers construction, financing, operation and management. Covers features of airports, including reproductions and translation of forms, legal documents, and contracts of great value to city engineers, airport committees, and airport managers. 48 illustrations.

DIEHL. Engineering Aerodynamics. By WALTER S. DIEHL, Lieut. (C.C.), U. S. Navy; Scientific Section, Bureau of Aeronautics. 288 pp., $7.00. Practical information on aerodynamics presented in form suitable for direct application by aircraft designers and advanced students of aeronautical engineering. About two-thirds of the material has never before been available. 159 illustrations and charts.

MONTEITH-CARTER. Simple Aerodynamics and the Airplane. By CHARLES N. MONTEITH, Chief Engineer, Boeing Airplane Co.; 3rd edition revised by COLONEL C. C. CARTER, of the United States Military Academy, West Point. 418 pp., $4.50. A completely revised and enlarged edition of a famous textbook widely used in ground and flying schools as an introduction to the study of aeronautics. Includes a general discussion of airplanes; characteristics and types of airfoils; explanations of lift and drag; rate of climb; landing speeds; parasite resistance; characteristics of aircraft engines; component parts of an airplane; stability; control surfaces; the propeller; airplane performance; dynamic loads; structural considerations; wind tunnels; methods and instruments for navigation of aircraft; airplane accessories; parachutes; radio for aircraft; aerial photography; etc., etc.

MUNK. Fundamentals of Fluid Dynamics for Aircraft Designers. By DR. MAX M. MUNK, Consulting Engineer, formerly in charge of Aerodynamic Research at Göttingen Aerodynamic Institute, and National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. 198 pp., $8.00. A specialized advanced book by a consulting engineer and mathematical physicist of international reputation. Gives and explains use of formulas required in the computations of aeronautical engineering.

RICHARDSON. Aircraft Float Design. By H. C. RICHARDSON, Director of Engineering for the Allied Motor Industries of Chicago, Illinois; formerly Chief of the Design Section, Bureau of Aeronautics. 111 pp., $5.00. Covers design features of various types of floats and their action in operation. 96 illustrations, diagrams, and charts; also explanatory tables.

KLEMIN. Airplane Stress Analysis—an Introductory Treatise. By ALEXANDER KLEMIN, Professor of Aeronautical Engineering, New York University. 277 pp., $7.00. Full explanation of how to make all the calculations in the airplane stress analysis required by the Department of Commerce for licensing of aircraft. 105 diagrams, charts.

ARNOLD. Airmen and Aircraft. By HENRY H. ARNOLD, Major, Air Corps, U. S. Army. 216 pp., $3.50. A fascinating, practical, and authoritative introduction to aeronautics which is scientifically accurate yet written in everyday language. Describes various types of airplanes, balloons, airships, control mechanisms, navigating instruments used. Supplies detailed information regarding courses of instruction for qualification as pilot. 24 illustrations and charts.

GARBER. Building and Flying Model Aircraft. By PAUL EDWARD GARBER, Smithsonian Institution. 300 pp., $2.25 ($2.45 postpaid). A guide for youthful beginners in aeronautics; construction details; rules for model flying competitions; records made by models. Official publication of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. 194 illustrations and drawings.

REEVES. Aerial Photographs. By DACHE M. REEVES, Lieut., U. S. Army; formerly Instructor in Aerial Photography, Advanced Flying School. 307 pp., $5.00. Explains characteristics of aerial photographs in their military applications. The first work on subject prepared specially for those who must interpret the photographs. Written in clear, non-technical language. 123 illustrations.

SHERMAN. Air Warfare. By W. C. SHERMAN, late Major, Air Corps, U. S. Army; formerly Instructor in Air Tactics, Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth. 307 pp., $4.25. The first thorough, authoritative analysis of the well-established principles and tactics of warfare as applied to military and naval aircraft. 16 illustrations and drawings.

BURGESS. Airship Design. By C. P. BURGESS, Aeronautical Engineer, Bureau of Aeronautics, U. S. Navy. 300 pp., $9.00. A comprehensive survey of airship design. Covers strength of airships, novel methods of stress analysis, how to calculate proper dimensions, weight, and horsepower necessary for any specified performance in regard to speed, endurance, and carrying capacity; principal steps in design, and design details. 85 illustrations, drawings, and charts.

BLAKEMORE - PAGON. Pressure Airships. By T. L. BLAKEMORE, Aeronautical Engineer, U. S. Navy; and W. WATTERS PAGON, formerly Chief Engineer, Dirigible Engineering Corporation. 311 pp., $8.00. Concisely presents large amount of technical information about fabric envelope classes of airships that maintain shape of hull by positive internal pressure of the gas. Numerous diagrams illustrate all important structural parts. Engineering formulas given are explained for the use of students and designers. 105 illustrations and drawings.

UPSON-CHANDLER. Free and Captive Balloons. By RALPH H. UPSON, Aeronautical Engineer, Aeromarine-Klemm Corp.; and C. DEF. CHANDLER, Lieut. Col., U. S. Army, Retired. 331 pp., $7.50. Practical information for pilots, designers, and manufacturers of free and captive balloons. Part I—Free Balloons. Structure; art of ballooning; organization of races. Part II—Captive Balloons. Technical descriptions of various types; winches, accessories. Part III—Fabrics for Gas Envelopes. 83 illustrations, drawings, and charts.

WARNER. Aerostatics. By EDWARD P. WARNER, formerly Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics, U. S. Navy; formerly Professor of Aeronautical Engineering, Mass. Inst. of Technology. 112 pp., $4.00. Discusses in physical terms, causes and extent of vertical motion produced by disturbances of equilibrium on balloons and airships, with the most effective means of applying corrections. Mathematical formulas in convenient form for use by students and designers. Invaluable practical data for use of balloon and airship pilots. 17 charts.

CHANDLER-DIEHL. Balloon and Airship Gases. By C. DEF. CHANDLER, Lieut. Col., U. S. Army, Retired; and W. S. DIEHL, Lieut. (C.C.), U. S. Navy. 226 pp., $7.00. How various gases for airships and balloons are produced, stored, compressed, and transported. Includes physics of gases; working formulas and tables are given throughout. 26 illustrations, drawings, and charts.

BANKING

WESTERFIELD. Banking Principles and Practice. By RAY B. WESTERFIELD, Professor of Political Economy, Yale University. 849 pp., $4.50. A well-tested and interesting textbook, partly informational and partly inspirational, for freshmen orientation courses. Assists freshmen to adjust themselves to the college environment and to give systematic thought to their choice of a future calling. Shows them how to study, use the library, budget their time, and how to approach and solve problems as they arise. Gives a brief but comprehensive analysis of various vocations, and discusses the character, personality, and natural aptitudes needed for success in any vocation.

KEIR. Industries of America Series. Edited by MALCOLM KEIR, Professor of Economics at Dartmouth College. 9 volumes (see descriptions following). An important series of a new type; just what has been wanted by those concerned with practical industrial economics, which is treated here not in generalities, but in terms of the specific industry which is of interest. Each volume, by an author familiar with the technology of its subject, gives in interesting, graphic style a comprehensive picture of a major industry or group of industries—its origins; the basic natural resources on which it depends; its technical and production problems; its marketing problems; its growth; present organization and past history; its present trends; and the major questions such as capital requirements, shifting industrial centers, combination and cooperative organization, which the industry is facing. Bringing together and summarizing thus, information and viewpoints not readily available elsewhere, the Series gives the user a grasp of the specific industrial problems which no other work has offered. It enables him to evaluate broad trends and tendencies with a background he obviously could not hope to acquire through personal study of details, for any considerable range of industries.

The volumes of the Series are:

Manufacturing. By MALCOLM KEIR, Professor of Economics, Dartmouth College. 611 pp., $5.00. Illustrated. Covers manufacture of iron and steel, the automotive industry, meat-packing industry, cotton manufacture, woolen manufacture, silk, leather and the shoe industry, paper, cement, brick and pottery, glass manufacture, and the problem of American industrial labor.

Communication. By R. T. BARRETT, American Telephone and Telegraph Company. In preparation.

Lumber. By WILSON COMPTON, Economist for National Lumber Manufacturers' Association. In preparation.

Economics. By BRUCE WINTON KNIGHT and NELSON LEE SMITH, Assistant Professors of Economics, Dartmouth College. In preparation.

Agriculture. By ROBERT J. MCFALL, Agricultural Division of U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce; formerly Professor of Agricultural Economics, Massachusetts Agricultural College. In preparation.

Mining. By THOMAS T. READ, Secretary American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers; formerly Associate Editor, Mining and Scientific Press. In preparation.

Transportation. By ROBERT S. BINKERD, partner James H. Oliphant & Co., New York; formerly Vice-Chairman, Committee on Public Relations of the Eastern Railroads. In preparation.

Geography. By JOHN W. FREY, Professor of Geography, University of Wisconsin. In preparation.

WEST. The History of the American Nation. By WILLIS MASON WEST, sometime Head of the Department of History, University of Minnesota. 923 pp., $6.00. A graphic interpretation of our achievements, by a leading American scholar and author. Professor West here views the history of our country as the vivid story of the world's greatest struggle for democracy in society, in politics, in industry. He shows the meaning of the great currents that have flowed through our national life, so that personalities and events take on new life and meaning, and we can clearly see how the record of the past has led up to and affects the great problems of interest today. Maps and illustrations.

FROM THE GENERAL PREFACE

It is already more than a hundred years since Simon Wilkin of Norwich began to labour at his monumental edition of the Works of Sir Thomas Browne. The results of his work appeared in 1836 and since that date no further attempt to re-edit Browne's complete writings has been made. . . . Meanwhile Browne's reputation has steadily increased; his notoriety as a writer of quaint conceits has tended to recede and his more serious claims as a writer of literature have advanced until he has been acclaimed by our greatest living critic* as one of the supreme writers of English prose. *GEORGE SAINTSBURY

NEW BOOKS AND REVISED EDITIONS

Northern Italian Details

Drawings and Photographs by
Walter G. Thomas and John T. Fallon

9½ by 12¼ Inches. 141 Full-Page Plates
Embossed Two-Tone Art Binding. Price $10.00

It is generally conceded by architects that the better-known examples of Italian architecture—in spite of their great charm—have served as "inspiration" to designers until the demand for something less trite is unmistakable. To fulfill this need the authors, both architectural draftsmen and designers of unquestioned ability, were commissioned to visit Northern Italy to collect material lying off the beaten paths. The result of their labors is a compilation of 143 plates of details representing in the main "architectural bits" such as doorways, windows, stairways, paneling, grills, gates, fountains, knockers, lamps, balustrades, pedestals, railings, choir stalls, benches, etc. Each subject is presented by means of photographs, measured and figured drawings and descriptive text.

Third Revised and Enlarged Edition

Jobbing Work for the Carpenter, Builder and Handy Man

By Edward H. Crussell

Third Edition, Revised and Enlarged

6 by 9 Inches. Cloth. 336 Pages
317 Illustrations. Price $2.50

This volume contains a collection of time—and labor-saving methods showing the shortest and most practical ways of making, repairing and remodeling all sorts of odd jobs. Special attention is given to labor-saving tools and equipment which the author has found so serviceable and which cannot fail to be appreciated by the practical man.

Third Edition, Revised and Enlarged

Plumbing Questions and Answers

By Joseph E. Taggart
Third Edition, Revised and Enlarged and Entirely Reset

5 by 7 Inches. 170 Pages. Fully Illustrated
Flexible Fabrikoid. Price $2.00

Originally, this work was compiled in response to many requests for an interpretation of the Plumbing Code of the City of New York. These rules have been converted into question and answer form, some with sketches to make their meaning clearer. The steady sale of the book has exhausted two editions and the continued demand has necessitated the preparation of another edition. This new third edition has been completely revised, considerably enlarged and entirely reset. It has been arranged in four sections: First, the questions and answers based on the code of the City of New York; second, tests for anti-siphon traps, installation of water supply and laws governing its use; third, the standpipe and fire-line rules of 1928; and fourth, an appendix of useful tables, measures and calculations.

Fourth Enlarged Edition

Steel Square Pocket Book

By Dwight L. Stoddard
Fourth Edition, Revised, Enlarged and Entirely Reset

4 by 6 Inches. 189 Pages. 184 Illustrations
Flexible Fabrikoid. Price $1.00

This concise and handy little book gives the best methods of using the carpenter's steel square and answers nearly every problem likely to come before the practical carpenter. Its compact and handy size makes it convenient to carry in the pocket for quick reference. An important feature which commends it to the carpenter is the absence of reference letters on the illustrations. Instead an exact engraving is given of the square itself laid on the work, showing at a glance all points, lengths and quantities sought. Simple instructions are given for finding the different cuts used in roof framing, stair work, hoppers, towers, etc., also directions for describing polygons, circles, ovals, fascia and frieze cuts and for solving other knotty problems.

New Revised and Enlarged Edition

Stair Builder's Guide

By Morris Williams

5¾ by 8½ Inches. 259 Pages. 358 Illustrations
Full Flexible Fabrikoid. Price $3.00

The purpose of this book is to explain in short and carefully prepared chapters the simplest methods of the art of stairbuilding in its present advanced stage. It covers the construction of straight flight, platform, cylindrical and elliptical stairs and explains the theory and practice so the average building mechanic may understand it. Almost every method of handrailing is also described.

Third Revised and Enlarged Edition

Joint Wiping and Lead Work

By William Hutton

5¼ by 7½ Inches. 90 Pages. 116 Illustrations
Full Flexible Fabrikoid. Price $1.00

If practically written text and moving-picture illustrations of the actual work can take the place of personal instruction in joint wiping on lead, copper, and brass pipes and the contingent manipulation of lead, this little manual will do it.
The author has found by actual experience what to avoid and the best methods to pursue under the varying conditions which arise in the preparation and wiping of joints on all kinds of pipes. He has explained each step as shown in the photographs so the mechanic will have no difficulty in understanding it.

Third Revised and Enlarged Edition

Estimating Building Costs

By William Arthur

4½ by 7 Inches. 233 Pages. 29 Illustrations
Flexible Fabrikoid. Price $2.00

This concise and handy volume has been especially prepared for the use of building tradesmen, contractors, material men, technical students and instructors and will also be found useful to all in any way connected with the construction of homes, barns, stores, and small manufacturing buildings. It contains a collection of material data covering all classes of building construction, and arranged for quick reference. There are ninety-one tables showing the actual number of hours and quantities of work done.

New Edition Preparing

Hick's Builders' Guide

By I. P. Hicks and Joshua C. Duncan

This volume is one of the most popular building books ever published, and covers every operation in the construction or alteration of a building. It solves every problem in building construction from the layout of the site to the completed structure. It also shows how to accurately estimate material and labor for all kinds of work by easy and practical methods. The new edition will be revised and brought up to date by the addition of much new material.

New Edition Preparing

My Automobile
Its Operation, Care and Repair

By Harold F. Blanchard

Every motorist should have a copy of this book, whether he repairs his car or not, as every phase of the motor car is fully covered in its pages. The outstanding feature of the book is the specific, step-by-step directions that it gives for finding and curing troubles. No matter what your trouble may be, open the book at the sympton, and there you will find the causes arranged in the order of their probability. Following the symptons and causes, are the cures. A new revised edition is being prepared.

INTERNATIONAL CRITICAL COMMENTARY on the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments. Planned and for years edited by the late Prof. C. A. BRIGGS, D.D., in America, and Prof. S. R. DRIVER, D.D., and Rev. ALFRED PLUMMER, D.D., in Great Britain.

This Commentary is international and inter-confessional, and is free from polemical and ecclesiastical bias. It is based upon a thorough critical study of the original texts of the Bible, and upon critical methods of interpretation. It is designed chiefly for students and clergymen, and will be written in a compact style. Historical and Archaeological questions, as well as questions of Biblical Theology, are included in the plan of the Commentary, but not Practical or Homiletical Exegesis. The volumes constitute a uniform series.

SEVEN WOMEN

By WILLIAM M. JOHN

What a meeting that was at Mrs. Gibbs' house that afternoon! Seven perfectly "good" women to sew for the suffering children of China. They thought they were filled with charity and unselfishness, but never once did one of them budge from her teacup to offer any aid to Mrs. Gibbs' hired girl, who was having a baby in the woodshed. Because she was not married and had refused to tell who was the father these seven women drew aside their skirts and left her to herself and the doctor.

As dramatic, vital and moving a story as has been written in years, in which Mr. John lays bare for your inspection the very souls of these seven women.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By CLARE OGDEN DAVIS

The charm of woman is that no matter with what situation she is presented, she will always act as a woman.

Mrs. Davis, who has a keen understanding of women, and politics as they effect women today, has written an absorbing novel with women and politics as the background. The story of Della Lawrence, who is elected to the office of governor and then meets, falls in love with and marries a man ten years her senior is an absorbing one, and shows how she worked out the problem and reached a decision as to whether she should discard the man she loves and go on with the career she adores; or abandon the career for the man she married.

12mo, 312 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.50

THE PASSIONATE PRELUDE

By GILBERT MORROW

An intriguing modern novel of youth at war with experience. The attempt of the woman who has suffered through love to save her niece who does not yet know. The ever insistence of youth to its own right to go its own way and to suffer in its own way.

Thus every day, in spite of every warning and every precedent, there is a passionate prelude being enacted.

REKINDLED FIRES

By MARY CROSBIE

This novel by the author of "There and Back Again" has called forth unstinted praise from the most important reviewers and papers in England. They hail Mary Crosbie as one of the most significant of the younger and coming generation of authors and predict for "Rekindled Fires" a permanent place in contemporaneous literature.

It is a story of the modern girl, in which the heroine, because of the urge inherited from her great-grandfather, determines to leave the "cotton wool" life of her English home and take charge of her own destiny—and the road, perhaps, not a conventional one, along which the old adventurer's—her ancestor—fire, rekindled now within her, leads her in these changed and modern days. Right or wrong, it was the old soldier within her —rekindled fires.

12mo, 318 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.50

DOMESTIC ANIMAL

By ERIC HATCH

The moving tale of Cabot Cabot, a fast worker—none faster—who sails gayly through the speedy life of well-bred modern society. It is filled with the wit, humor and satire of Newport, Bar Harbor and New York society and is laugh-provoking from its ridiculous opening to its astonishing end.

The whole thing is a well-bred scream on modern society life mingled with a certain pathos one finds in the lives of all these people, but you will laugh with Cabot Cabot all the way.

12mo, 300 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.00

MARRIAGE FOR TWO

By ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

The swift-moving romance of a New York millionaire, who, on the rebound from the breaking of his engagement, helps a starving girl back to health, marries her to spite the other woman, and then falls in love with her.

A charming tale of a man falling in love with his wife and the remarkable, amusing and quite satisfactory denouement, written by the best known romantic novelist in America.

FOOLISH FIRE

By VIRGINIA SWAIN

A modern, flaming youth at its best. The young widow of a world-famous aviator who learns, after his death, of the secret life of her dead husband and who then tries to adjust herself to the situation—a situation which none of us thinks applies to himself until it is brought home with a force of actuality.

What would you do if, at your adored husband's funeral, you suddenly found out that there had been two other women in his life?

Such was the plight of the charming and beautiful heroine of this fast moving and intriguing story.

12mo, 312 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.00

ISLE OF ILLUSION

By GEORGE GIBBS

A young Northerner playing golf in the South near the Mississippi River is forced to flee before the rising flood. He drifts down on an automobile tire tube, comes upon a Southern girl marooned in a tree, helps her to a deserted house on a knoll, where they house-keep for a couple of days, and then falls in love with her. Thereupon follows a charming Romeo and Juliet romance that ends in the best possible way.

Who shall say that money and old feuds can keep two young people from loving each other. Certainly not George Gibbs.

12mo, 312 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.00

TRIUMPH

By CHARLES FRANCIS COE

What would you do if your husband whom you loved got into the clutches of a political boss and began to make questionable money? What would you do if the boss whom you loved—a kindly soul in reality—had saved you and your mother when you were both helpless? That was Nellie's problem, and the author has drawn a vibrating picture of the struggles of this seemingly weak woman trying to tackle the problems of life in the midst of crooked politics.

12mo, 318 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.00

NEW DETECTIVE STORIES

THE MARK OF THE RAT

By ARNOLD FREDERICKS

A detective story laid in a country house where a double murder takes place. The development of the story and the ultimate solution of the mystery of these two deaths is accomplished by the application of a recent medical discovery which in this case puzzles the reader up to the last page. An ingenious use of modern science in detective fiction.

So unusual, so bizarre is the ultimate outcome of the story, that even to hint at it might impair the reader's interest for the underlying situation of the "Mark of the Rat" is the most amazing and unique in the entire range of detective fiction.

12mo, 300 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.00

THE C. I. D. OF DEXTER DRAKE

By ELSA BARKER

The Master Detective Again in Action

The author of "The Cobra Candlestick" in which she introduced the super-detective, Dexter Drake, has produced in this story a record of some of the instances of second sight and inductive reasoning genius which her character, Drake, exhibits in solving the mysteries which have baffled the police and which have been referred to him for solution.

By means of slight clews that would escape others, because he alone can detect their value, Dexter Drake is able to run down the crime and solve the mystery.

EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY

THE CHILD OF HUMAN PROGRESS

By GEORGE HENRY PAYNE

With introduction to new edition by

W. L. ETTINGER

Emeritus Superintendent of Schools, New York City

Without the history of the child there cannot be a scientific knowledge of the thousand years of child life. Nobody has given it until the author of this book afforded us the wealth of his vast studies.

This is a book which should be in the hands of every student of sociology, every student of history, and above all, every student of education. No thoughtful teacher can afford to be without it, for it is a study and narration of civilization from an angle that no other author has ever attempted.

Octavo, 419 pages, illustrated. Price, $2.50

NON-FICTION

THE HORIZON CHASERS

By LORING ANDREWS

It was a journey in search of adventure—in search of romance—that the author and his wild Irish friend Gavin Archer took round the world, paying their way by playing the accordion and bicycle-pump flute to the denizens of the Seven Seas and the three continents. They got into fights and brawls with the driftwood of the East and into moonlight episodes with white and dusky ladies everywhere.

No book of adventure can compare with it for its gay atmosphere, for its mixture of pathos and humor. These two wandering musicians made adventure of everything, even in the stokehole of the ship, even in the cheap boarding house in Australia, and, certainly in the soft climate of the islands of the South Seas, as they chased gaily on from one horizon to another.

Thus they sped on over the rim of the world, with eyes strained toward other and stranger lands, other and still more fascinating seas. They played their way around the world on a tune, and those of us who sit by the evening lamp can go with them from adventure to adventure and thus be lifted out of the drudgery of everyday life into the realm of romance, that is better and stranger than any fiction.

THE LAST STAND OF THE PACK

By ARTHUR H. CARHART

In collaboration with

STANLEY P. YOUNG

This tale of the extermination of the last of the wolves on the Western plains and mountains reads like fiction. The wily old wolves, who scent a concealed trap a mile away, the struggle of the government officials to destroy them, the bravery of these pirates of the forest and the hair-breadth escapes of the hunters make it a tale never to be forgotten.

It reads like the story of the passing of the American Indian and so graphically and vividly is it written that the sympathies of the reader are with these courageous but evil Renegades of the Rangeland. For after all, these wolves are only following out their instinct and the life they and their ancestors have led for centuries. The range was theirs before the white man came. The cattle was their natural prey. These wise animals, the last of their race, are so shrewd, so intelligent, that it takes all the brains which the Government officials can muster, together with extraordinary bravery, to catch them one at a time. They are making their last stand.

THE PHILIPPINES

A Treasure and a Problem

By NICHOLAS ROOSEVELT

This book devotes itself to a consideration of the important problems in the Philippines which face the people of the United States and their representatives. An able and skillful presentation of the situation as it now exists in the Philippines.

8vo, 315 pages with frontispiece, jacket in colors.

THE CANNONEERS HAVE HAIRY EARS

The Fighting Man in Action

ANONYMOUS

This volume is a vivid record of the artillery in the Great War. Rough, frank, pungent, it portrays the real War in the front trenches. Here is a heart-rending and thrilling view of the soldier who faced death every hour of the day. One of the greatest of all the books that have come out of the War.

8vo, 340 pages, jacket in colors.

THE STORY OF LITERATURE

By SIDNEY GUNN, A.M.

Professor Gunn tells the story of literature from the earliest times through its development in all the nations of the world to our present day. He presents literature as one of the chief possessions of the human race for entertainment, amusement and education. He tells how the immortal writings came into existence, the distinctive marks of genius which they bear. He sketches the lives of their creators.

8vo, 360 pages, jacket in colors.

DOG AND DOGS

By JOSEPH EDWARD HARRY, Ph.D.

This book traces the history of the dog from the very earliest times that he was known to man, and tells of his development down through the ages to the present day. It tells the story of the dog in religious worship, in politics, in literature and in song.

An unusual feature is the great number of dog stories from the literature of the world, both ancient and modern.

BIOGRAPHY

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

By J. HUGH EDWARDS, M. P.

With an Introduction

By CHARLES EVANS HUGHES

This is Lloyd George's authorized and official biography. The author is a member of Parliament from Wales and a life-long friend of the great commoner. The introduction is by that distinguished American, Charles Evans Hughes, ex-secretary of state of this country, who is also a friend of Lloyd George of many years standing.

This biography is an illuminating picture of the rise of Lloyd George from abject poverty in a little Welsh village, not only to the highest political post in the British Empire, but to what was in reality the position of Dictator of half the world. It is a human picture of great character done in a distinguished manner and it is not only of absorbing interest to those of us who are older and read of great achievements with satisfaction, but it will be inspiring and encouraging to the younger generation. From it they will learn that perseverance and honesty of purpose and hard work will be rewarded; for did not Lloyd George, without influence, without money, without help, rise from a lowly Welsh farmer's family to be the most powerful figure in the world.

Lack of space prevents giving in full the outline of the biography, but it takes us through the period after his father's death that he lived with his uncle, a shoe-cobbler, who took in the little family, and helped small David get the rudiments of his education, through school, as a young lawyer, in Parliament, as a member of Cabinet and finally as Prime Minister. Mr. Edwards tells an extraordinarily appealing story of little David Lloyd George and his uncle. It seems that the old cobbler had heard or read a little about a wonderful man across the sea in America, whose name was Abraham Lincoln, and he bought a cheap print of this man and hung it on the wall over the shoe bench. From the time that little David Lloyd George was old enough to understand, his uncle daily showed him this cheap print of Abraham Lincoln and told him over and over again that there was a man to pattern his life upon and a man who was brought up in poverty and became head of the United States. Until this very day Abraham Lincoln has been Lloyd George's guiding star.

The book reviews many of his intimate and personal viewpoints on both foreign and domestic politics; and you can understand as you read it why with his sympathetic viewpoint towards the laboring classes he has become to them almost a demi-god. Here also are many of the anecdotes and stories that he has used in his speeches throughout his career so successfully and many of his famous speeches themselves are also quoted.

IT IS THE OUTSTANDING BIOGRAPHY OF THE YEAR, AND POSSIBLY, THE OUTSTANDING BOOK OF THE YEAR.

FOR THE SMALL CHILD

The Most Unusual Juvenile of the Year

For Children, Ages 4–8

LIZA JANE AND THE KINKIES

Written and Illustrated by

MARY PHIPPS

Printed throughout in two colors, including the 100 illustrations

But once in a decade do we find a writer who can get inside the heart of the child, who can see things as children see them and knows their unfailing secrets for joy and laughter and fun. Such a writer is Mary Phipps.

Liza Jane's Mammy worked for the white folks up in the Big House and Liza was lonely because she had nobody to play with. Then came the little black fairies—the Kinkies. The doings of these tiny companions, how they played with Liza Jane and all their adventures make a story filled with delightful episodes, a fascinating mixture of imagination, folklore and fairy tale that appeals to children everywhere.

THE ROAD TO ENCHANTMENT

By GEORGENE FAULKNER

Eight full page illustrations in colors by Frederick Richardson
Fifty-four black and white illustrations by Charlotte Becker
Pictorial jacket and cover inlay in colors by Frederick Richardson

In this volume are twenty-seven Fairy Stories and Folklore Tales gathered from all over the world—Russia, Hungary, Italy, France, Ireland, Bohemia, etc. Some come from little known lands and some from countries familiar to all of us, but always they are the favorite tales of the children of each country.

They are re-told by Miss Faulkner in simple, charming language, so that the child of America will understand them and love them too. The eight beautiful illustrations in full color by the famous artist, Frederick Richardson, and the charming fifty-four pictures in black and white by Charlotte Becker, make this an unusually handsome juvenile.

THE YOUNG BIRDMEN ON THE WING,
or, THE RESCUE AT GREENLY ISLAND

By KEITH RUSSELL

With four full page halftone illustrations by Richard Rodgers

This story tells the adventures of a young reporter, the son of a newspaper owner who flies with a friend, an aviator, up to Greenly Island off Labrador, when the famous famous European fliers are stranded there on the only successful East to West flight across the North Atlantic.

The hazardous journey is to pull off a newspaper "beat," and how they accomplish their task through many adventures and escapades and bring back the precious photographs and the "story" is a tale which will thrill every red-blooded boy.

THE CAPPER COUSINS

By ALICE LEE CARROLL

With 40 illustrations throughout the text by Phyllis Britcher

There were five of them. Fluffy and her brother, Tweedle-dum, and their cousins, Dick, Susie May and Tweedle-dee. Funny names, but that is what they were always called. They have all sorts of adventures, just the kind of things that are happening every day to the young readers themselves. That is why just before bedtime they will love to curl up on the sofa, or in mother's lap, and hear of the doings of other children just like themselves. Even Father and Mother will love the lively cousins, and be as anxious as the children to learn how it all turned out in the end.

IF I COULD FLY

By FERRIN L. FRASER

Text hand-lettered. Illustrations on every page by Mrs. Fraser

A volume of child verse in which a little boy has and tells his own thoughts and his own charming philosophy—his thoughts as he sees the birds fly, the ships sail, his father and mother at their daily occupations, the blowing leaves—all told in the first person after the manner of Stevenson and with much of this great man's charm. The numerous delightful illustrations are by Mr. Fraser's wife.

MAYPOLES AND MORALS

A New Novel

By FREDERIC ARNOLD KUMMER

The Froth of Fantasy and Wit, Compounded with the Deep Red Wine of Passion

"Maypoles and Morals" is an all informing novel of love that expresses itself in passion and warmth, and holds enthralled sweet twenty-six, and quite as much, lovely thirty-eight, and still adorable forty-six. This is a witty, vivid novel of love, the sort of love that binds in locked embrace men and women, and alas all too often, paradoxically, puts them asunder. Yet this love, properly and profoundly understood, may hold them together through life—one flesh and one mind, linked by bonds of steel.

WAR BOOKS

A MARINE TELLS IT TO YOU

As Told by COLONEL FREDERIC MAY WISE to MEIGS O. FROST

Colonel Wise, a distinguished officer of our Marine Corps, tells his story, more packed with thrills than half a dozen adventure novels. It is a gorgeous, gaudy chronicle of a slam-bang life in the service of the United States. He describes how he trudged the hell-hot wheat fields of China in the Boxer Rebellion; of his service in Haiti, San Domingo, and then of the climax of his career in the World War. It was his own regiment of Marines that helped stop the Germans at Château Thierry, and fought for seventeen terrible days through Belleau Wood. It is written without fear or favor, and with candor.

Octavo, 356 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $3.00

WINE, WOMEN AND WAR

NECESSARILY ANONYMOUS

The First and Still the Finest Book That Has Come Out of the War

This is an authentic, actual diary of a soldier in the Great War. It depicts in day by day entries actual war—its very essence as it was fought in France by our soldiers.

This is the diary of a young officer, intelligent, keenly alive, and sensitive to all that is going on around him, graphically revealing what he saw, he felt, he suffered.

This is a diary of laughter—but laughter with a touch of irony.

Octavo, 321 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.50

P.S.: A Post-War Diary

By the Author of "Wine, Women and War"

The officer who wrote that unique best seller, "Wine, Women and War" returns to France, the scene of his earlier diary, ten years after the war. This is not, however, another journal of a war veteran, but the human appraisals of a philosopher, a thinker, a traveler, a writer. It exhibits a sabre-like quality, cutting through hypocrisy, a cynicism, an incisive quality of observation, and above all else, a delightful humor.

Octavo, 288 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.50

WAR PAINTINGS OF CLAGGETT WILSON

With Appreciations by Alexander Woollcott and Henry McBride

American war pictures have ranged all the way from the bright, implausible soldiers who defied the enemy on the magazine covers to these twenty-four paintings by Claggett Wilson. These pictures are great because they bear the marks of authenticity. They are unquestionably the most remarkable drawings that have yet come out of the war.

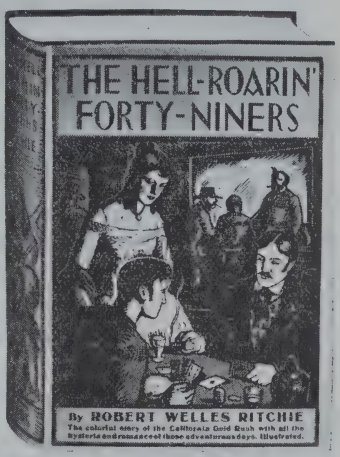
AMERICANA

THE HELL-ROARIN' FORTY-NINERS

The Colorful Story of the California Gold Rush

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE

Illustrated with Contemporary Prints and Old Photographs



This is the vivid story of the most picturesque era in the history of the New World, when thousands trudged forward by foot or by wagon train to the wild new land of California. Where they stopped, towns "mush-roomed" over night,—Poker Flat, Brandy City, Rough and Ready, Galena Hill, Downieville, where the beautiful Juanita was hanged by a mob—all hell-roarin' camps.

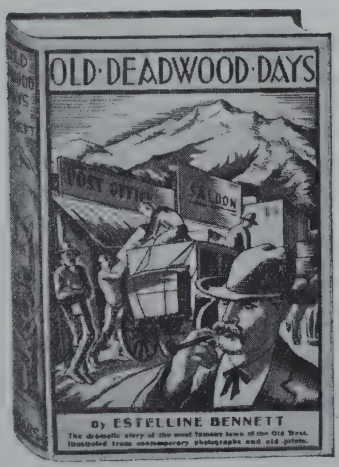
Here is the hysteria and tragedy of highly colored life which Bret Harte so vividly pictured in his immortal stories. This is an authentic book, an invaluable addition to Americana.

Octavo, 298 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $3.00

OLD DEADWOOD DAYS

The Dramatic Story of the Most Famous Town of the Old Frontier

By ESTELLINE BENNETT



Illustrated from Contemporary Photographs and Old Prints

The most vivid town of the old wild west in the days of its greatest glory is here recreated by one who lived through those days and witnessed the scenes that loom large in the history of our last frontier. Calamity Jane, Seth Bullock, gamblers, miners, bull whackers, ladies o' love, cross the stage that Miss Bennett has set up in her vivid book and play again their roystering parts just as they played them in life "before the railroad came."

And here is Deadwood with its tragedies, blasted hopes, its raw drama, and the romance of the Old West.

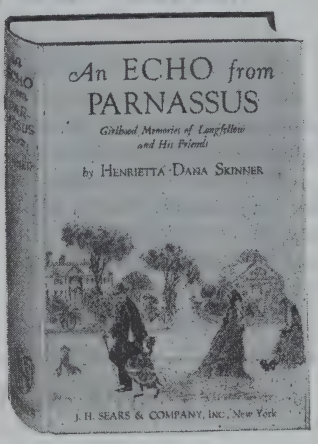
AN ECHO FROM PARNASSUS

Girlhood Memories of Longfellow and His Friends

By HENRIETTA DANA SKINNER



The author is the daughter of Richard Henry Dana, who wrote that famous sea classic, "Two Years Before the Mast." She attended school in Cambridge at the house of Longfellow with the poet's children. She paints a delightful picture of the golden days of American literature, the days of Longfellow, Lowell, Emerson, Holmes and Whittier. This charming book is freighted with rare anecdote of the literary great by one who knew them first hand. Her warm, rich and pointed recollections are a unique contribution to American letters.

WHEN LOVE COMES TO WOMAN

By LEAH MORTON

A gripping story of the flouting of the old standards of marriage, with its problem of the unmarried mother, as seen through the eyes of a social worker. She discusses frankly with example and story the toll which this independence often exacts from the woman and from the man, too.

What shall the present day woman have for her standards since the historic standards have been swept away? Shall she live the same life as a man? Can she handle herself under the conditions of the new order? All this and much more Leah Morton discusses from her own experience and her own knowledge, and leads the reader to somewhat startling conclusions.

12mo, 342 pages, jacket in colors. Price, $2.50

I AM A WOMAN—AND A JEW

By LEAH MORTON

This is a story written by a woman who reveals with utter sincerity her intense experiences. A pioneer among women in business, she found prejudices toward her sex in the business world. Because she was a Jew, she was hampered in her earning power and in her progress. She found in her social life, in her mating, and in her desires for her children, great gulfs between Jew and Gentile.

MAN'S GRIM JUSTICE: My Life Outside the Law

By JACK CALLAHAN

With an Introduction by Charles S. Whitman, Ex-Governor of New York State and Former District Attorney of New York

This is the autobiography of a noted criminal. Jack Callahan characterizes himself as "a rebel with a streak of Hell." Even the leather and the water cure failed to break him. For thirty years he showed a zest and industry as he piled crime upon crime that leaves the reader amazed even to read about it. This book is the psychology, the thoughts and viewpoints of a man who has run the entire gamut of criminality.

WORLD POLITICS

THE WRITING ON THE WALL

Who Shall Govern Us Next?

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Former U. S. Ambassador to Italy

In the years since the War, nation after nation has turned away from representative democratic government because it has been made impotent by lobbying, graft and other abuses. Party government thus being worn out, must the countries of the world revert to dictatorships and monarchies? "Why should we?" asks Mr. Child. "For these are quite as decrepit as democracies." Why not a new type of representative government?

THIS AMERICAN WORLD

By EDGAR A. MOWRER

Edgar A. Mowrer, the brilliant American correspondent, through living in Germany and with his detached point of view of our country, its people, its civilization, is able to observe our economic, political, artistic tendencies, and contrasts them rather sharply with the same tendencies in Europe and the rest of the world. He finds America leads the world in wealth and energy, but her tendencies today are toward a vast "mediocracy" in all lines of thought and endeavor.

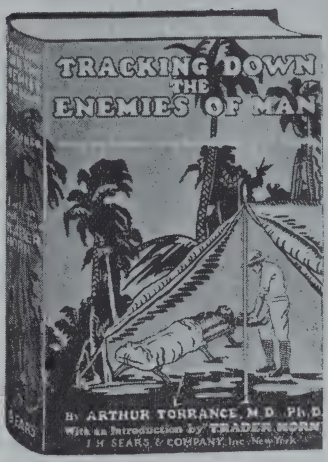
TRACKING DOWN THE ENEMIES OF MAN

Romance of a Doctor's Life in the Tropics

By ARTHUR TORRANCE, M.D., Ph.D.

Fellow of the Royal Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene

With an introduction by "Trader Horn"



The so far unconquered enemies of man are neither wild beasts nor criminals. They are the tse-tse fly, the malarial mosquito and other flying insects and microscopic germs which carry disease. Dr. Torrance has spent many years in the tropics of Asia and Africa, and he tells how he and other medical adventurers have tracked down these greatest of all enemies. This is a romantic story of bravery, fortitude and courage.

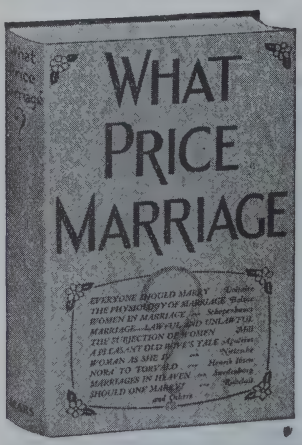
BELLES LETTRES



WHAT PRICE MARRIAGE

Marriage was a fruitful subject of discussion in the Roman Forum, in the Medieval castle halls, in the French salons, and it is equally as fresh and interesting a subject today. Wherever the discussion leads, whatever the conclusion is upon marriage, these great selections have one common quality, that of brilliance and absorbing interest.

Nearly every writer in literature has had something to say upon the question of marriage. In this book are found, among others, brilliant selections by Voltaire, Balzac, Pepys, Lamb, Tacitus, Schopenhauer, The Koran, Dostoieffsky, Ibsen, Swift, Nietzsche, St. Augustine, Rabelais.

DECAMERON TALES

By GIOVANNI BOCCACCIO

Delicious stories are the Decameron Tales. They embody romance, an exotic flavor, with delights even unto thrills and breathless suspense. They faithfully portray human character, even if sometimes we find Boccaccio writing with his tongue in his cheek. Here are the thirty odd stories of the one hundred which made Boccaccio's name, and they are clean even according to our modern standards. Their piquancy, tang and freshness never fail to make intriguingly entertaining reading.

THE NEW HUMANITY

By MIRZA AHMAD SOHRAB

"The New Humanity" breathes faith in humanity to achieve its ideals. In this age of sneering skepticism, this book dawns like a smile of assurance to a world that is indifferent alike to suffering and prosperity. "The New Humanity" challenges this inertia and invokes a fresh initiative. Much stress is laid on the fact that individual effort alone can achieve the collective consciousness which is to make for world freedom.

Extraordinary Value

THE FAMOUS ROYAL BLUE LIBRARY

New Price 50 Cents Per Volume

Four years ago, we introduced the Royal Blue Library, the greatest value ever offered in the history of the book making industry, to sell at 75 cents a volume. Its quality was quickly recognized by the trade and public and it became one of the best selling libraries of the classics on the market. Its success has allowed us to manufacture in ever increasing quantities and has made possible a reduction in price to 50 cents per volume. It is the old economic principle of quantity production, which is as true of books as it is of automobiles or any other commodity.

At a fifty cent retail price, no book compares with it in quality of binding, press work and handsome appearance. Its range of titles (there are now 64 volumes) include all classes of literature —French, English and American classics, Biography, Poetry, Plays, Short Stories, etc. New titles are in preparation, which will be added from time to time until within this library will be found all of the best selling worthwhile books in the English language. Now more than ever before, the Royal Blue Library, in its fine, limp leather style, will appeal to trade and public as the most overwhelming value ever put forth by any publisher.

These volumes of the Royal Blue Library are printed on the highest quality of white book paper from new plates with a finely proportioned type page and wide margins. Each book measures 5 x 7¼ inches and contains approximately 250 pages. The covers are semi-flexible allowing the book to fit comfortably into the hand. The stamping is in genuine gold leaf. It is bound in a blue artificial leather with a fine pin seal grain. The artistic jacket is in blue and Chinese yellow.

In the back of the book the author gives you the proper solution of every hand you play.

SOLITAIRE BRIDGE is the new key to contentment. When you play SOLITAIRE BRIDGE, the time will fly so fast as you make game after game, or three Grand Slams in succession, that you will find yourself recklessly burning the midnight oil.

This book contains 50 games, each with its own individual scoring and bidding chart. There are full instructions on how to play SOLITAIRE BRIDGE, with a sample game completely worked out. In the back of the book is the correct solution of each of the fifty games. There is also a chapter devoted to bridge pointers for beginners including instructions for bidding and suggestions for opening leads. A dictionary of bridge terms concludes the book.

THE COMEBACK

The Story of the Heart of a Dog

By* JOE MILLS

With twelve illustrations by Howard L. Hastings

To the boy who loves rousing, thrilling tales of adventure, with fine suspense and stirring action, "The Comeback" will be just his kind of story.

Here is a courageous collie, who struggles between loyalty to her human master and love for her primitive mate. How she works out her life story is told with an exciting climax, which leaves the heart racing from a succession of thrills.

12mo, 244 pages, two-tone jacket. Price, $1.50

LITTLE WOMEN

By* LOUISA MAY ALCOTT

"Little Women" with much original attractiveness is now put out in two handsome volumes, 12mo in size, and each volume is an inch thick. The volumes have an attractive jacket in colors, delightfully depicting the quaintness and charm of this famous story. They have pictorial end papers and title page.

These two volumes are put up in a slip box. Bound in blue pattern cloth, stamping on the front covers and backbone.

Gift Edition, two volumes, boxed. Price, $1.00

SEARS JUVENILE CLASSICS

Here is an edition of standard Juvenile Classics which will fascinate the younger reader. These 42 volumes are just what boys and girls want their books to be—bright, cheery and clever. The titles have been selected with much care and embrace a fine range of the widest selling and the best liked of the famous classics for children and young people.

These volumes have a brilliant jacket printed in four colors, depicting the familiar and beloved characters of famous children's stories passing in review. This pageant idea has been carried out with much originality, and is a most effective piece of pictorial jacket work. This picture is found again in a rich duo-tone sepia as end sheets in the front and back of each volume. This picture, which has proved of much interest to children, is thus preserved as a permanent feature of the book. In the panels on these end sheets are appropriate children's verses.

The covers of the volumes have an all over design stamped in red and deep bronze blue on a light tan cloth, making an unusually attractive combination of color values. This design is in keeping with the best taste in the finer books for children. The volumes are bound in sturdy, stiff covers, and will stand the hard usage a child gives to books. They have brilliant red stained tops. Each book is printed in large type from new plates on a fine quality of heavy white book paper. The volumes are a full standard 12mo in size, measuring 5⅛ inches wide by 7¾ inches high and 1 inch thick. Each book contains about 256 pages.

SEARS ILLUSTRATED JUVENILES

Last year we offered 15 titles in these large size illustrated juveniles. So popular were these books, that we have added this year five new titles of wide appeal.

These books are illustrated by distinguished artists. They have border pictures in color on every page which are different in each book. Each volume also has an individual pictorial jacket and frontispiece in gay colors, the designs of which are reproduced below. They also have pictorial end sheets and decorated title pages.

The volumes are bound in a fine quality of pattern cloth of different colors on heavy boards, with colored inlay pictures on the front cover. The title on the front cover and backbone and the ornamental frame about the inlay are stamped in gilt. They are printed on a heavy white paper in large type from new plates. Large Quartos, measuring 7¾ x 9¾ inches, 256 pages.

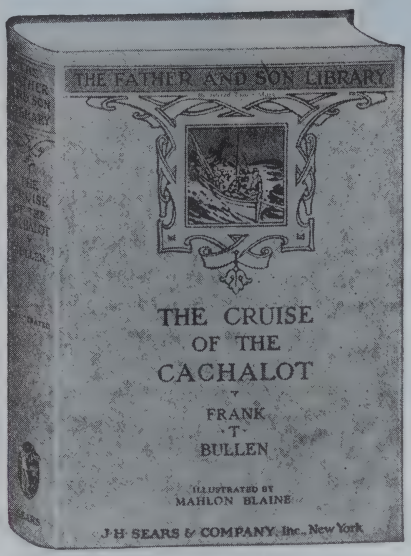
THE FATHER AND SON LIBRARY

Registered Trade Mark

"My Boy's Book and Mine"

The Greatest Value in Books for Boys



During the past few years there has arisen a fine movement which will have the greatest importance to the coming generation. This is the "Father and Son" movement, and we find "Father and Son" golf tournaments, "Father and Son" boat races and "Father and Son" scout dinners. Father and son playing together promotes companionship between them, and breaks down the barriers of the respective generations. But nothing can weld so strong a bond between father and son as the reading of good books together.

Such is the idea behind this interesting Father and Son Library. Into this library will go those great classics of youth which tower high above the rest of literature for boys. The titles in this library are those which are not too young for the father to enjoy reading, and not too old to interest the boy.

These books have six full page halftone pictures, specially drawn for each of the titles by the best American artists. The volumes are bound in a high quality of cloth with an attractive design on front cover and backbone. They are printed in large, clear type from new plates on an excellent quality of book paper. They are full 12mo. in size, measuring 5½" x 7¾". They have handsome colored jackets and stained tops.

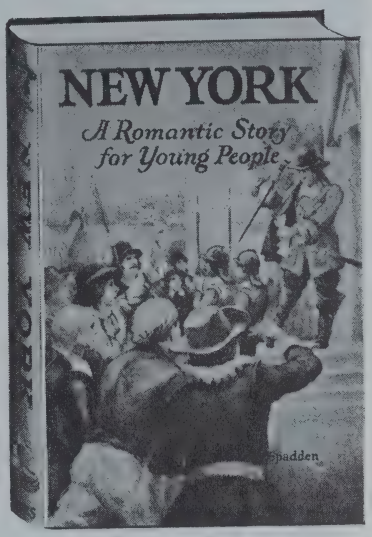
THE ROMANTIC STORIES OF THE STATES FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

By J. WALKER McSPADDEN
Illustrated by HOWARD L. HASTINGS

This series presents a new and exceptionally interesting idea in books with an historic background for young people. With the events and facts of history thoroughly accurate the author at the same time writes with a keen sense of the story teller and stresses to the fullest the romantic and dramatic possibilities of his theme. The result is a group of books dealing with the history of the states in story form which are approved of by educators and which for their interest and fascination, will be hard to equal.



An old trapper or an old settler tells the stories and tales of adventure which are the important turning points in each state's history, while the young people sit about, ask questions and listen. For each of the original thirteen states, the story is told from the time the first white man put foot within its territory until the Revolutionary War. For the other states, the story is brought down to the state's admission to the Union.

Each volume has a four-color jacket by the well known artist, Howard L. Hastings, picturing a significant historic event in the story of the state. These volumes are also illustrated with twenty black and white full page and half page pictures, together with a decorative title page by the same artist. The end sheets are a reproduction of a hundred year old map showing the original trails, forts, etc.

These books are bound in a fine quality of green pattern cloth with a pictorial inlay on the front cover. The ornamental design and title on the back of the books, together with the frame around the inlay are stamped in gilt. They are printed on a good quality of white paper in large, readable type from new plates. Each book measures 5¾ x 8¼ inches and has a bright stained yellow top.

ADVENTURES of TOMMY CAT, THE SAILOR

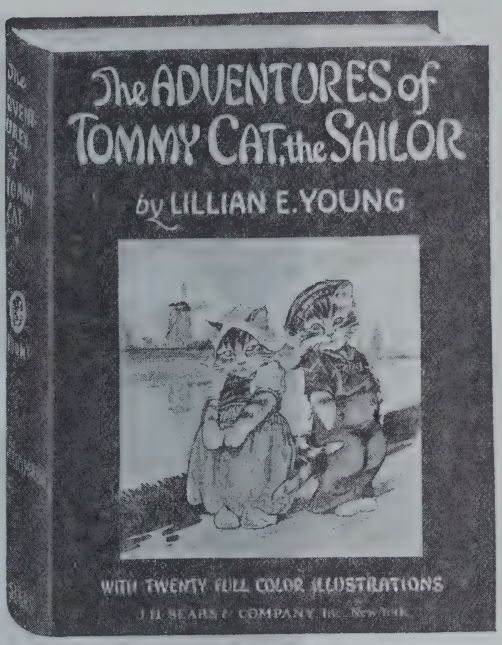
By LILLIAN E. YOUNG

Illustrated with 20 full-page, four-color pictures by the author and 11 facsimile letters from Tommy Cat to His Mother



Tommy Cat lived on the New York waterfront. Naturally, therefore, he was ambitious to go to sea. He shipped as an able seaman on board "The Scat" and sailed off for many ports. He visited in turn Holland, England, France, Spain and Japan, etc. He had marvelous, exciting adventures, and he wrote home to his widowed mother the most fascinating letters, which are reproduced in this book in Tommy's own handwriting and spelling, with the stamps in colors.

This book has an attractive four-color jacket, decorative title page and end papers. It is bound in blue pattern cloth with colored inlay. Large quarto, 7¼ x 9¾ inches, with colored top.

Price, $2.50

THE NIP AND TUCK BOOKS

By LEILA CROCHERON FREEMAN

Each title has a colored jacket, 8 full page colored illustrations, 4 full page colored end sheets, 40 black and white text illustrations by the author, bound in cloth with colored inlay. Large size Quarto, 9½ x 11¾ inches, 200 pages.

NIP AND TUCK in TOYLAND

At the end of "Nip and Tuck" Santa promised to take the two little sprites in his sleigh away up to Santa Claus Land, where he would show them how the toys for all the children in the world are made. This story tells the amazing adventures Nip and Tuck had with the toys that came to life.

Price, $2.50

NIP AND TUCK

This delightful book introduces to boys and girls two most fascinating little characters. Nip is the long serious chap, and Tuck the fat little sunny fellow.

These two bewitching imps are brought down to the children's world on a wisp of a radio wave. They lead the children through many whimsical, exciting adventures.

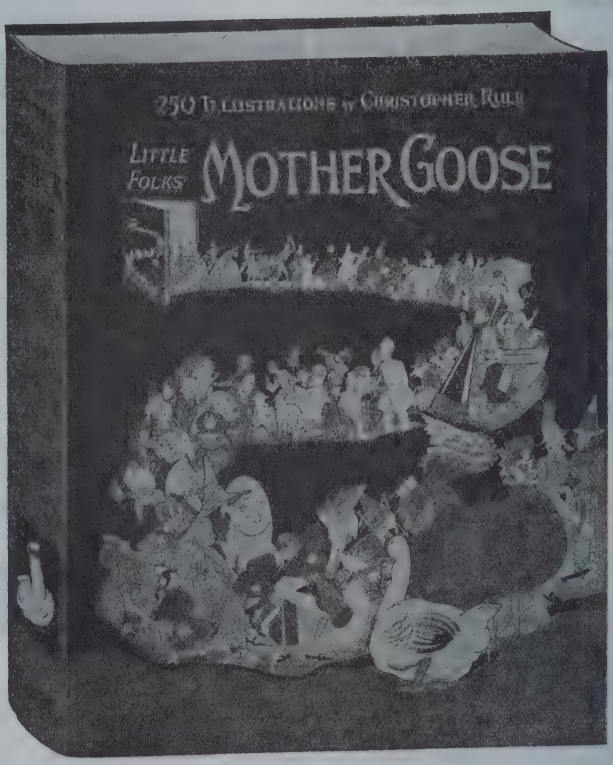
LITTLE FOLKS' MOTHER GOOSE



With 250 Illustrations by Christopher Rule

This beautifully illustrated edition of "Mother Goose" brings fresh and startling delights to boys and girls. This edition has been compiled with much care, and it will prove most satisfying in its arrangement, wording and editorial qualities.

This edition is made the more charming and delightful to the child because the pictures are drawn with a new cleverness. These illustrations have the appeal of the old famous editions, and at the same time they are modern in style and belong to the present day. There are 250 pictures in this fine book, many of them full page drawings. These were drawn specially for this edition by the well known artist, Christopher Rule.

A particularly attractive feature of this edition is its handsome jacket printed in four bright, contrasting colors. The artist has cleverly shown in this picture the beloved characters of "Mother Goose" marching by in pageant array. The child will pore over this picture with the greatest fascination, picking out the seventy-five familiar characters on this jacket.

This picture that appears on the jacket is found again in its same brilliant colors as the inlay on the cover. This beautiful edition also has colored pictorial end papers and a decorative title page.

This volume is bound in a red pattern cloth which handsomely sets off the inlay. The book also has a brilliant red stained top. It is printed on unusually good paper from new plates. The type has been chosen for size and style so as to be easy and pleasant for the child to read. This is an extra large book, measuring 9½" wide by 11¾" high. The rule around the inlay on the front cover and the design and lettering on the backbone is stamped in gilt.

This book contains probably more pictures than have ever been put into a volume of "Mother Goose" to sell at this price. It will prove the outstanding edition of "Mother Goose" in its attractiveness to children.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF HAPPINESS

BY WALTER B. PITKIN

WHAT is Happiness? How does one attain it? Being neither a Messiah nor a Mountebank, Professor Pitkin makes no claim to answer either question. He has no message; he is merely a realistic psychologist in whose steel files at Columbia University repose the typed descriptions of thousands of personalities, past and present. From a study of these cases, Professor Pitkin thinks he can contribute the first brief chapter to the longest story that will ever be told—the story of the nature, not of Man, but of men—and of their adjustment or maladjustment to the Universe.

The major part of this volume is devoted to a witty analysis of half a hundred personalities exemplifying certain types to which all of us can relate ourselves. Among the unusual glimpses of unusual people are snapshots of a horde of characters who were under Professor Pitkin's personal observation during the last twenty years; but even more interesting are the iconoclastic dissections of famous historic figures, among them Garibaldi, Bryan, Gerald Stanley Hall, Leopardi, Kant, Descartes, Papini, D'Annunzio, Greeley, Huneker, Cardinal Newman, Katherine Mansfield, Vincent Van Gogh—and Woodrow Wilson.

"For the first time in the career of mankind," says Professor Pitkin, "happiness is coming within the reach of millions of people . . . If we are to make the ascent to the realm of joy, it will only be through self-study and self-evaluation. A pretty thorough understanding of personality is the foundation of most people's happiness. This is the best reason in the world for your studying these specimens." His book is the first concrete essay in that direction which is specifically adapted for the layman, not the psychologist.

One professional psychologist, who read this book while still in manuscript, wrote:

> "His cases are always good, well written and admirably pointed. And their quantity is not less important than their quality. The mass of them has a bulk and weight which is impressive, almost overwhelming. Human nature is in this book as human faces are on Broadway! But the human nature is studied, not with the dry objectivity of the laboratory savant, but with the sympathetic vigor of the enthusiast of personality. The humor and wit of the style are no less noteworthy than its scientific integrity. To those who are seeking happiness but are intelligent enough to distrust panaceas, soul-nostrums and pseudo-scientific claptrap, Professor Pitkin's empirical anthology of human beings will come as a vigorous stimulus to more intelligent living. It is a concrete exposition of the problem of living in accordance with your personality."

THEY LOVE IT OR PHANTOM FAME

BY HARRY REICHENBACH IN COLLABORATION WITH DAVID FREEDMAN

"I'LL take an unknown girl, provided she is fairly attractive, and put her name in electric lights on Broadway in ten days at a star's salary . . . Pick out one of the smaller countries in Latin America and I'll change the government in five days . . . I'll make a handcuff king out of a man who can't even get out of his own night-shirt . . . Give me a young man who can wear pleated pants and in three weeks I'll make him the idol of American womanhood . . . I'll do these things because I've already done them, and can do them again."

Thus speaks Harry Reichenbach, the ace of fame-makers, to his collaborator, David Freedman. From an ordinary press agent such statements would be idle and vainglorious boasting. But coming from the man who "put over" Three Weeks, The Virgin of Stamboul, Tarzan of the Apes . . . from a deft and calculating exploiter who has helped grease the axis of the earth with banana oil on an incredibly vast scale . . . from the arch-plotter against American gullibility who helped build the dream-empires of Lasky, Zukor, Fox, Gloria Swanson and Rudolph Valentino . . . from such a virtuoso, this swift forthright recital transcends mere theatrical audacity and buccaneering, and becomes a realistic disclosure of American manways. This is the low-down on the herd.

The book is an intensely personal record, running over with "inside" revelations and lusciously specific names, places and details. Here homo Americanus dances on the strings manipulated by a cool directing brain, partly Barnum, partly Machiavelli, but predominantly Reichenbach. Like the pristine circus barker from whom he springs, this titan of publicity knows all, sees all, tells all. He passionately believes that publicity is the head, nervous system, and heart of the world. He maintains that fifty persons in New York dictate the customs, ideas, and trends of all America . . . more than that, he names them, and marshals them the way Tiller does dancing girls or Millikan atoms. Reichenbach is a shrewd student of mass psychology and the subtle by-paths of social communication. Unlike many sentimental trumpeters for Broadway and the theatre, he sees the sinister side of the story. He tells of phantom fame in the making, and of its dissolution, too. Tinsel and mountebankery and glory are here, but also inflated egoes, broken bubbles, and quiet fadeouts.

THE DRIFT OF CIVILIZATION

A Symposium

Charles G. Abbot	H. E. Howe
Richard E. Byrd	J. B. S. Haldane
Benedetto Croce	Sidney Hillman
Hans Driesch	Paul De Kruif
Albert Einstein	Stephen Leacock
Morris Fishbein, M.D.	Martin A. Nexo
Henry Ford	Michael Pupin
Guglielmo Ferrero	James H. Robinson
Sir Philip Gibbs	Bertrand Russell
Maxim Gorky	André Siegfried
Rudolf Maria Holzapfel	Wm. Howard Taft
The Very Rev. Dean Inge	H. G. Wells
Count Hermann Keyserling	Owen D. Young

In this collection, whose unique value and authoritativeness are amply indicated by the roster of contributors, the main tendencies of the world today are brilliantly projected by a group of the world's greatest philosophers, scientists and men of action. The symposium presents, in effect, a panoramic view of contemporary civilization, particularly as applied to American problems, together with a series of astonishing forecasts.

The essays are grouped under the following headings:

THE FUTURE OF MAN
THE FUTURE OF SCIENCE
THE FUTURE OF AMERICA.

It goes without saying that any volume which contains the work of such men will possess a literary and philosophical value calculated to appeal to every thinking American. The tremendous audience which is capable of deriving intellectual profit from such volumes as "Whither Mankind" and "America Comes of Age" will eagerly welcome this symposium by a group whose names, to quote the New York Times, "read like the roster of a World's Academy of intellect and action."

THIS UGLY CIVILIZATION

A Study of the Quest of Comfort

BY RALPH BORSODI

THIS is an ugly civilization. It is a civilization of noise, smoke, smells and crowds. Is it a civilization, also, of men and women content to live among these things?

Here is a book which sets out to answer the question. It is not a lecture. It is not a sermon. The work of a trained economist, statistician and business man, This Ugly Civilization is at once an impassioned yet logical attack on the factory system, a constructive program for a new individual and communal life, and the record of a personal experiment in de-mechanized living. It combines a deeply-felt faith with expert, detailed knowledge of the weaknesses and possibilities of the American way of life.

This Ugly Civilization was written for that rapidly growing army of thinking Americans who are looking for a path to lead them out of the jungle of smokestacks, brick, steel and cement into the open plain of the Good Life.

PETER THE GREAT

BY STEPHEN GRAHAM

"HOLY RUSSIA" is dead but the gigantic figure of Peter, called the Great, will not die. Interest has now merely shifted from his work and policies to the man himself.

This full length biography, by a famous student of Russian life and history, aims primarily to present a vivid, yet authentic portrait. It is, therefore, studied almost entirely from Russian sources with the result that it will stand for many years as the fullest and most detailed life of Peter in any language.

This Gargantua among monarchs, childlike and terrible, sadist and buffoon, drunkard and sensualist, wielder of the knout and rack, was among the greatest, if not the greatest, of kings in modern history. He throned in an atmosphere of fear, sadism and burlesque mirth. His court was filled with dwarfs, monstrosities and fools; his orgies and destructive rages and tortures are a hundred crimson streaks on the pages of his life. In him alone was foreshadowed a large part of Russian destiny. With his ruthless hands he turned the dreamy face of Russia to the West.

TWELVE AGAINST THE GODS

The Story of Adventure

BY WILLIAM BOLITHO

"THE Incomparable Bolitho" presents an integrated chronicle of the world's great adventures—a demoniacal dozen of trail-blazers, throat-slitters, home-wreckers, empire-builders, disturbers of the peace and wholesale circumstance-manufacturers-to-the-trade. Here he relates to their time and to one another the roster of "society's pests and benefactors":

INTRODUCTION; The Technique of Adventure.
ALEXANDER THE GREAT; The Adventure of Youth, and How Philosophy Tamed It.
CATILINE; The Rich Young Racketeer of Rome.
MAHOMET; The Bloody Hunt for Heaven.
COLUMBUS; Who Proved That Everything Is True, If You Believe It.
CAGLIOSTRO (and Seraphina); The Search for a Phantom.
CASANOVA; He Who Went Furthest Into the Forbidden Country of Women.
CHARLES XII OF SWEDEN; And Danger As an Ideal.
LOLA MONTEZ; The Only Adventure Women of the Past Could Live.
NAPOLEON I; The Only Reason for Waterloo.
NAPOLEON III; The Living Serial: Consequences of the Situation.
ISADORA DUNCAN; The Dance of Life on a Tightrope Strung Over Europe.
WOODROW WILSON; Single Combat.

"Europe is my Thibet," said William Bolitho, after leaving South Africa, the land of his youth, to discover for himself the operations of Western civilization. He discovered them first as a stoker on a British liner; again on the battlefields of France; he elaborated his researches by a year's stay at a Military Hospital in Scotland, after being literally buried alive at the Somme.

In Capetown he had been newsboy, laborer, honor student in Cicero, Racine, metaphysics and Hebrew, even candidate for a Moslem priesthood. In Europe he became a cavalryman, infantryman, bomber, liaison officer to the French press at the Peace Conference, and finally—in London—correspondent for the Manchester Guardian and the New York World.

While he was discovering the folkways of an incredible Europe, a few persons were discovering him: Alice Meynell, through a chance meeting in a bookshop; John Balderston, through his reports for the British War Council; Walter Lippmann, Herbert Bayard Swope, Heywood Broun, Frank Crowninshield and Christopher Morley through the prose that "swirled and eddied" in every one of his weekly dispatches to the New York World. It was Lippmann who said that he wrote "like a man from Mars," and Woollcott who first called him "the Incomparable Bolitho."

EROICA

The Life of Ludwig van Beethoven

BY SAMUEL CHOTZINOFF

IN THIS novelized biography, Samuel Chotzinoff, the music critic of The New York World, traces four influences in Beethoven's life:

1. The cultural and refining influence of Frau von Breuning when the composer was an uncouth young man in Bonn.

2. His passion for the Immortal Beloved, whoever she may have been.

3. His affection for his nephew, whose ultimate worthlessness gradually embittered the composer.

4. His deafness, contracted from an illness early in life. This was epochal in his development as an artist and a man. It accounts for his hostile attitude toward women, and his Comstockian interference in the lives of his friends and relations.

Out of these four important influences (together with myriads of minor ones) Beethoven emerges as one hammered by life into the proper instrument for the musical expression of the loftiest feelings of civilized man.

PRIVATE SECRETARY

The Story of Mary Linden

BY ALAN BRENER SCHULTZ

MARY LINDEN is one to snatch her crown and try it on though she be shot for it. Energetic, clever, ambitious—she represents that conquering class of modern business girls, a major part of whose lives is lived "at the office" rather than "at home." Behind the frosted-glass doors of Big Business there is high drama and adventure—and in the pages of this novel it is caught with striking fidelity.

Mary Linden thought she knew what she wanted—but her problem was complicated by three men: Slim Jim Duneen, magnetic, self-confident dictator of Big Business; Ronnie Wales, a selfish, but charming literary young man; and Joe Carey, one of those sincere, but inarticulate, sub-workers who come to visit the daughter and stay to help the mother.

Those of us whose lives are divided by two great phrases: "From Nine to Five" and "After Office Hours" will understand and enjoy this book—and perhaps recognize ourselves in this bright, yet penetrating tale of a private secretary's career in love and business.

"—& CO."

BY JEAN-RICHARD BLOCH

Translated from the French by

C. K. Scott-Moncrieff

"—& CO." is an epochal saga of the rise of an industrial dynasty in nineteenth century France. It is by a French novelist who is just now being introduced to America by the Inner Sanctum but who on the Continent is generally considered among the most significant figures of his generation.

"—& CO." offers us a gigantic fictional panorama. On its enormous canvas is spread out the thrilling story of the economic rise of the highly individualized French-Jewish family of the Simlers. Not since Galsworthy's Forsyte Saga have we been presented with so minute and masterly a picture of a social group. The career of the Simlers in the latter part of the 19th century is traced through three generations. The older generation is symbolized by the iron-willed father whose dominating personality unifies the book. His son, Joseph, over-sensitive, over-intelligent, is drawn away from the stern utilitarianism of the family by a girl of alien race; but the law of the factory and the ties of the family prove in the end too much for him. In young

Louis, heir to a new age and vision, we catch a glimpse of the future.

This is a novel of literally tremendous scope, involving in its coils a complete picture of the social fabric of France after 1870; a gripping account of the rise and fall of an industry; a penetrating study of race difficulty and differences; a mordant portrait of a patriarchal Jewish household, done with a continuous attractive irony; a tracing, almost scientific in its accuracy, of the development of family traits through three generations.

The plot, so rich, so manifold, so crowded with characters, is impossible to summarize. The work is Balzacian in scheme but borrows from the moderns a new and penetrating psychology.

William A. Drake, the noted authority on contemporary European literature, says:

"One of the most satisfying novels I have read since the War. A work of great ideological significance—the ideas are sound, constructive and close to our day."

The translation is by J. K. Scott-Moncrieff, who is also responsible for the English versions of Marcel Proust, Luigi Pirandello, Stendhal and other great European masterpieces.

LITTLE NOVELS

BY ARTHUR SCHNITZLER

Translated from the German by ERIC SUTTON

IT MAY surprise those who know SCHNITZLER only through his novels and novelettes to learn that the majority of continental critics believe his finest and most enduring work to have been accomplished in the field of the short-story. In these ten Little Novels (for their compactness surely entitles them to the term), the publishers feel that they are offering to Schnitzler's eager and growing American audience the perfect flower of the genius of the Viennese master.

Most of these tales, employing that gravely ironical manner which is Schnitzler's very own, deal with the relations between men and women; one or two, such as The Prophecy, touch startlingly on the supernatural and the workings of Fate; and the finest of the collection, a masterpiece among masterpieces, is a tenderly beautiful study of the love between a blind man and his brother. Anyone who begins The Fate of the Baron, which opens the collection, will not cease to turn the pages until he has finished The Death of a Bachelor which closes it.

Many of these stories, such as The Greek Dancer and Blind Geronimo and His Brother have for long been accepted as German classics; it is to be hoped that by virtue of Eric Sutton's graceful and intelligent translation they will now become English classics also. They possess a grave and burnished beauty of style and an astonishing compactness not to be found, perhaps, even in Schnitzler's famous novelettes. They obey no particular literary canon—many of them were written years ago, some are more recent—but commend themselves simply to all lovers of high literature.

LOVE STORY

BY THELMA WOODHILL

THIS novel is a relentless portrait of a dominating mother—and a daughter who was too carefully guarded.

Martha Barnet was a woman whose dissatisfaction with her material fortune led her to a series of strange, almost hysterical convictions. Agnes, her carefully sheltered ewe-lamb, was taught that the flesh is impure and that a woman's chief duty in life is to uphold the claims of the spirit against one's baser desires. The tragedy of Agnes' blind career mounts to a final climax in which all the careful defenses her mother has built up for her crumble into a gulf of terrified awareness.

In an era of censorship, Love Story appears as a dramatic commentary on the actual consequences of repression and ignorance. It is a book in which the characterization is as powerful as the message. It is not a new theme, but because it clothes an idea in unforgettable flesh and blood and it is here treated with such force and such quiet effectiveness, Love Story is almost certain to be widely and absorbedly read—particularly by mothers and daughters.

VIOLENCE

BY MARCET AND E. HALDEMAN-JULIUS

VIOLENCE is more than a novel. Although primarily a story of love and justice in the central South, it is also intended by its authors as a charge to that far-flung jury, the people of America.

The action, laid in the imaginary central southern state of Texlarkana, starts with a fatal bullet-shot from the revolver of the Reverend Phil Jordan, servant of God —and squire of dames. The preacher-mankiller is blessed not only with eloquence, good looks and an ability to deceive himself, but also with a fortunate pigmentation. His acquittal stands in dramatic contrast with the fate of Skip Early, the mulatto boy who murders fourteen year old Sue Jean. Back of this bloody triangular dramatization is a portrayal of the life of the town's middle and younger generation whose bodies and passions ripen early.

Violence, in its power and indignation, will recall the great crusading novels of Frank Norris and Upton Sinclair.

DON'T CALL ME CLEVER!

BY LAWRENCE DRAKE

FOR this startling first novel, the claim might reasonably be made that it stands alone, in recent American fiction, as a completely adult and unsentimental picture of the Jewish spirit and intellect.

It differs radically from the conventional "Jewish novel" in that it develops in terms of a set of vital characters rather than in terms of a thesis or problem. By the same token, its appeal is widened: for the non-Jewish reader cannot fail to find fascination in its pages.

The center of the novel is the conflict between two brothers, Al and Nathan Laskov, citizens of Milwaukee. Between them, the brothers sum up many of the characteristics of their race: Nathan, the fierce and misanthropic idealist, "terrible in argument," fastidious in love; and Al, a perfect portrait of the type of business man who is both shady and soft-hearted, a character of astonishing complexity—sentimental, vulgar, fearful, shrewd, sycophantic, contemptuous and generous.

Don't Call Me Clever! introduces a young novelist who has something new and daring to say and who has worked out his own method of saying it.

THE MURDER IN THE GILDED CAGE

BY SAMUEL SPEWACK

AFTER her sensational divorce trial, Mrs. Breese, wealthy New York society woman, retired to her gorgeous palace of white marble in Havana. The American colony of whisperers and gossip-mongers called it The Gilded Cage.

Around The Gilded Cage gather, one by one: Mrs. Breese's divorced husband; Rice, her financial adviser; Thomas, her over-handsome fiancé; her daughter, together with the young Russian count from whom she had been separated; and Perutkin, most fantastic of detectives.

And then, under circumstances sufficiently baffling, comes the murder of Mrs. Breese.

The complication is resolved by a startlingly novel twist and from first word to last there is no letdown of the reader's interest.

The Murder in the Gilded Cage is triple-guaranteed to challenge the sleuth-instinct of the most cynical detective-story addict. It is one of the best detective yarns the Inner Sanctum has read in several seasons.

THE ART OF THINKING

BY ERNEST DIMNET

PUBLISHED late in 1928, The Art of Thinking has steadily upheld its record as the best-selling non-fiction book in America. It is now in its 86th to 100th thousand.

In the Saturday Review of Literature, Professor John Dewey of Columbia University says:

> "Before a work of art one is likely to be dumb or to indulge only in ejaculations; and when asked why one likes it, to reply 'Go and see for yourself'. That is the way I feel about this genial and witty book. I would say to the reader, 'Taste it, try it for yourself. Keep it close at hand, read a page or two, a paragraph, opening at random. Browse about in it; read it consecutively. Keep it on a bedside table and read it to compose your mind at night and to arouse it in the morning'. And in answer to the question 'Why?' the best reply I can make is still, 'Try it and see'. For the book is compact with the wisdom gathered in years of observation of himself and of others . . . If there are those fortunate enough not to need any of the counsels that the author gives, I still urge them to read the book, if only to make the acquaintance of an experienced and deeply wise personality."

HOW'S YOUR BRIDGE?

BY SIDNEY S. LENZ AND ROBERT RENDEL

THE publishers believe that this is the only book in which the reader can discover, step by step, the fundamental principles of bridge, and at the same time see the fine points of the game for himself.

The reader of this book is at the same time a player. He sees his own hand. He makes up his mind what to bid. He turns over the page and sees what he should have bid. Then he sees what the other players do. Then it's once more his turn. In this way, the reader goes through twelve hands of Auction Bridge and four hands of Contract, testing himself in each case against Sidney Lenz.

THE SPECTATOR

A Weekly Review of Insurance

Devoted to the interests of Life, Fire, Casualty, Liability, Surety and all other forms of insurance. Published weekly.

The Spectator is a live and progressive Insurance Journal, noted for its pungent and fearless discussion of all matters pertaining to the vast subject of insurance in every branch. It contains the latest and freshest insurance news from every quarter, bright and sparkling correspondence from the principal insurance centers of the country, comments on current insurance events of the day, and able discussions on the principles of Life, Fire, Casualty and Miscellaneous Insurance by practical expert authorities in their several lines.

A most valuable feature of The Spectator is the presentation from time to time of carefully prepared and voluminous Tabular Exhibits of the business of Life, Fire and Miscellaneous Insurance, usually in a comparative form, showing the business transactions and detailed experience of all companies for a series of years. These statistics are compiled by experts having no personal interest to serve, but are prepared solely for the purpose of analyzing the subject.

Educational features in The Spectator, covering respectively Life, Industrial, Fire, Casualty and Miscellaneous classes of insurance, have served to make The Spectator very popular with agents, because of their distinctly helpful and valuable character. They are printed each week as a separate department of the paper.

A very interesting feature of The Spectator consists of the Monthly Bulletins compiled by the Research Bureau of Insurance of The Spectator Company, and printed in The Spectator, and which, are also issued separately as parts of The Insurance Year Book Service. One of these each month is devoted to fire insurance, and the other to casualty, surety and miscellaneous insurance.

The most eminent writers on insurance in its various forms are contributors to its columns, and the aim of its proprietors is to present the science of the insurance systems in vogue without prejudice to any and in fairness to all. It is in this spirit that Fire, Life, Industrial, Casualty and Miscellaneous Insurance Companies, Associations and Societies are treated without fear or favor. It also gives the current news from different insurance centers each week, and each number is an epitome of all matters pertaining to insurance affairs that are of interest to the profession at large.

A Service Bureau is maintained for the benefit of our subscribers, answering questions pertaining to the insurance business. As the largest publishers and importers of insurance works in the world, we have in our files a vast amount of data, and are thus in a position to be of inestimable value to our patrons.

BUSINESS BUILDING LEAFLETS BY WILLIAM T. NASH

The leaflets and other publications of which Mr. Nash is the author, and The Spectator Company the publishers, are now regarded by company officials, agents and life insurance men generally as being business builders and business conservers of almost inconceivable value. Since agents are writing millions of new business and companies are holding and reclaiming millions of tottering old business, all through the wide distribution of these publications among prospects and policyholders, their value cannot well be overestimated. The life insurance man who is not using these human, true to life and most effective appeals to the uninsured and the under-insured, would do well to begin now by placing his order with The Spectator Company. Send for the Business Builders Service, a folder listing this series of leaflets and describing how to use them effectively.

UP-TO-DATE LIFE INSURANCE LEAFLETS

THE WELL KNOWN BUSINESS BUILDING PUBLICATIONS
By William T. Nash. The leaflets and other publications of which Mr. Nash is the author, and The Spectator Company the publishers, are now regarded by company officials, agents and life insurance men generally as being business builders and business conservers of almost inconceivable value. Since agents are writing millions of new business and companies are holding and reclaiming millions of tottering old usiness, all through the wide distribution of these publications among prospects and policyholders, their value cannot well be overestimated. The life insurance man who is not using these human, true to life and most effective appeals to the un-insured and the under-insured, would do well to begin now by placing his order with The Spectator Company. Send for the Business Builders Service, a folder describing how to use the Nash leaflets effectively.

HOW MUCH LIFE INSURANCE SHOULD A FARMER CARRY?

This leaflet gives the farmer who keeps putting off taking life insurance, or who thinks that a $1,000 or $2,000 policy is enough insurance for him to have, something to think about. It wakes him up. If you doubt this, just try it on your farmer prospects. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $4.00; 100 copies, $7.00; 500 copies, $28.00; 1,000 copies, $45.00; 5,000 copies, $180.00; 10,000 copies, $335.00.

MOTHER AND SON

Portrays graphically a son's practical method of expressing his affection and gratitude to his Mother by providing for her future in case of his premature death. The leaflet is strikingly illustrated by a photographic reproduction of a young man presenting a life insurance policy to his Mother. Prices: Sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $2.50; 100 copies, $4.50; 500 copies, $18.00; 1,000 copies, $30.00; 5,000 copies, $120.00; 10,000 copies, $225.00.

NOT JUST NOW

This leaflet combats in forceful fashion this evasive answer so often given the agent. It is the story of the sufferings of a frail little woman whose protector had repeatedly put off the agent with Not Just Now, until it was too late. This leaflet is suitable for most prospects and is a good closing appeal. Prices, 50 copies, $4.75; 100 copies, $8.00; 500 copies. $35.00; 1,000 copies, $60.00; 5,000 copies, $240.00; 10,000 copies, $450.00.

ONE BUSINESS MAN'S EXPERIENCE WITH LIFE INSURANCE

This is a most fascinating story of how life insurance gave a young man his first start and later on saved the large business he had established. Every man who really is anxious to make the most of his opportunities should read this leaflet. Prices, sample copy, 15 cents; 50 copies, $4.50; 100 copies, $7.50; 500 copies, $30.00; 1,000 copies, $50.00; 5,000 copies, $200.00; 10,000 copies, $375.00.

ONE DOCTOR'S EXPERIENCE WITH ENDOWMENT INSURANCE
This interesting and instructive leaflet relates the experience of one doctor who learned early in life that life insurance, particularly the endowment plan, is the only really suitable investment for one of his profession. He admits that doctors are "easy marks" for promoters and explains why they are. This is a wonderful leaflet to use among physicians, dentists and those of every other branch of the medical profession and also among lawyers and other professional men. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies. $4.75; 100 copies, $8.00; 500 copies, $35.00; 1,000 copies, $60.00; 5,000 copies, $240.00; 10,000 copies, $450.00.

ONE FARMER'S EXPERIENCE WITH LIFE INSURANCE
The thousands of agents who have been using this leaflet for years will testify to its great value to the agent whose work is among the farmers. It is the experience of one farmer and shows what life insurance had done for him as well as for some of his neighbors. Then this farmer cites other cases showing what hardships had been suffered by the families of other farmers who had put off life insurance until it was too late. This leaflet is one of the strongest appeals to the farmer ever written. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $4.00; 100 copies, $7.00; 500 copies, $28.00; 1,000 copies, $45.00; 5,000 copies, $180.00; 10,000 copies, $335.00.

ONE SALARIED MAN'S EXPERIENCE WITH LIFE INSURANCE
There has been great need for this sort of leaflet for salaried men; one that would say just the right thing and say it in the right way. Here it is. It is instructive as well as entertaining to the salaried man and is a business getter for the agent who will use it among his salaried prospects. Prices, 50 copies, $4.75; 100 copies, $8.00; 500 copies, $35.00; 1,000 copies. $60.00; 5,000 copies, $240.00; 10,000 copies, $450.00.

ONE SELF-SUPPORTING WOMAN AND HER LIFE INSURANCE
Describes vividly the personal experience of one woman who learned the value of life insurance. The liberal distribution of this leaflet among the great army of well-paid women is certain to bring results to the agent who will follow them up properly. Prices, sample copy, 15 cents, 50 copies, $4.75; 100 copies, $8.00; 500 copies, $35.00; 1,000 copies, $60.00; 5,000 copies, $240.00; 10,000 copies, $450.00.

ONE YOUNG MAN'S EXPERIENCE WITH LIFE INSURANCE
It is doubtful if there ever has been written anything on life insurance that has made a deeper impression on the young man. Many agents have been using this leaflet for years and with most gratifying results. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $4.00; 100 copies, $7.00; 500 copies, $28.00; 1,000 copies, $45.00; 5,000 copies, $180.00; 10,000 copies, $335.00.

PARTNERS AND LIFE INSURANCE
Shows in a forceful manner the value of life insurance to business partners and their families; also to a one-man business. It is as suitable for use among small storekeepers as among the largest merchants. The agent who will use this leaflet will not be disappointed. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $2.75; 100 copies, $5.00; 500 copies, $20.00; 1,000 copies, $35.00; 5,000 copies, $140.00; 10,000 copies, $265.00.

REAL REASONS FOR LIFE INSURANCE
Showing in short, terse paragraphs the many uses for life insurance. The insured who believes he has all the life insurance he needs is very likely, after reading this leaflet, to realize that he is very much under-insured. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $4.00; 100 copies, $7.00; 500 copies, $28.00; 1,000 copies, $45.00; 5,000 copies, $180.00; 10,000 copies, $335.00.

SENSE OF SELF PRESERVATION, THE

SOME DON'TS OF LIFE
An effective array of arguments in favor of life insurance protcetion. The briefness and directness of each "Don't" makes this an excellent piece of life insurance propaganda. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $2.50; 100 copies, $4.50; 500 copies, $18.00; 1,000 copies, $30.00; 5,000 copies, $120.00; 10,000 copies, $225.00.

WHAT LIFE INSURANCE MEANS IN DAILY LIFE
Showing the importance of life insurance in everyday life ideal for both prospect and policy holder. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies. $2.75; 100 copies, $5.00; 500 copies, $20.00; 1000 copies, $35.00; 5000 copies, $140.00.

WIFE'S INSURANCE, THE
It is well known that the average man when left without means and with a family of young children to care for, is quite as helpless as would be the mother herself. This leaflet makes it clear that the wife also should have some insurance for her children. As an example of what this leaflet will do, a certain agent sent a copy to each of his policyholders in one little corner of a farming county and a few days later began following them up. He wrote $51,000 in one month on the wives of these policyholders. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $2.50; 100 copies, $4.50; 500 copies, $18.00; 1,000 copies, $30.00; 5,000 copies, $120.00; 10,000 copies, $225.00.

LEAFLET FOR MONTHLY INCOME PROSPECTS

A LOT OF MONEY
To those who may not fully appreciate the value of a small monthly income to their families, this leaflet should be given. It has been the means of agents securing many applications for monthly income insurance. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $3.50; 100 copies, $6.00; 500 copies, $25.00; 1,000 copies, $40.00; 5,000 copies, $160.00; 10,000 copies, $300.00.

INSURING YOUR INSURANCE
This is for the larger insurer and explains why the proceeds of life insurance should be left with and distributed by the insurance company rather than by a trust company. This is a valuable leaflet in all such cases. Prices, 50 copies, $4.50; 100 copies, $7.50; 500 copies, $30.00; 1,000 copies, $50.00; 5,000 copies, $200.00; 10,000 copies, $375.00.

JOHN APPLEGATE'S INSURANCE
If every man could have the problem of providing for his wife and children after his death as clearly brought home to him as it was to John Applegate, there would be much more monthly income life insurance written. Every life insurance company and agent will find it serviceable in convincing prospects of the desirability of income insurance. Prices: Sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $2.50; 100 copies, $4.50; 500 copies, $18.00; 1,000 copies, $30.00; 5,000 copies, $120.00; 10,000 copies. $225.00.

ONE WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE WITH A MONTHLY INCOME
This interesting story relates the experience of a woman who was left a comfortable fortune and a $50 monthly income. The latter she regarded only as "pin money" but finally it was her all. This is a most instructive and convincing leaflet on monthly income insurance. Prices, sample copy, 15 cents; 50 copies, $4.75; 100 copies, $8.00; 500 copies, $35.00; 1,000 copies, $60.00; 5,000 copies, $240.00; 10,000 copies, $450 00.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

STORY OF ED REDLICH, THE
The company that has not put this story in the hands of its agents should do so. It describes in detail the methods used, not by one of the few phenomenal writers, but by a successful average life insurance solicitor. Every agent and every agent's life should have the opportunity to read The Story of Ed Redlich. Price, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $4.50; 100 copies, $7.50; 500 copies, $30; 1,000 copies, $50; 5,000 copies, $200; 10,000 copies, $375.

CONSERVATION LEAFLETS TO REDUCE LAPSATION

AT THE END OF THE ROAD
Makes a profound impression upon the reader. It proves by those who watch at the bedside of the dying that a man's last thoughts are not of himself but of his family. CONSERVATION LEAFLETS TO REDUCE LOANS

BORROWING FROM MARY
While this is not a canvassing leaflet, it should be read over and over again by the agent, as well as by every policyholder. The purpose of the leaflet is to discourage a policyholder from borrowing on his insurance and also to induce him to repay any loan he may previously have made. Hundreds of thousands of this leaflet are sent out by companies to their borrowers and policyholders and with surprising results. Prices, sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $2.50; 100 copies, $4.50; 500 copies, $18.00; 1,000 copies, $30.00; 5,000 copies, $120.00; 10,000 copies, $225.00.

BORROWING ON YOUR LIFE INSURANCE
A new leaflet pointing out the fallacy of making a loan on a life insurance policy. An excellent leaflet for use to discourage applicants for a loan and for enclosing with premium notices. Prices, per copy, 10 cents; 100 copies, $3.00; 500 copies, $12.00; 1,000 copies, $20.00.

CLEVELAND'S LAST MESSAGE: LIFE INSURANCE AND ITS RELATIONSHIP TO OUR PEOPLE.

Written especially for THE SPECTATOR by the late Grover Cleveland, ex-President of the United States. Mr. Cleveland says that American life insurance "stands before the country in a stronger position to-day than ever before," and that to avail of the protection of life insurance "is but to discharge a duty imperatively suggested by intelligent foresight and wise precaution." Published in 1908. Price, per copy, 10 cents; 100 copies, $4.00.

CONFIDENTIAL NOTES

This is a striking leaflet with a cover of solid green in fac-simile of a memorandum or note book. The reading matter depicts an interview with a supposedly rich man showing that he wanted $25,000 of life insurance, but was too busy to close just then. A subsequent notation shows three days later Mr. Brown was killed by an automobile and his supposed wealth was all "on paper." An excellent leaflet for closing prospects. Prices: Sample copy, 10 cents; 50 copies, $2.75; 100 copies, $5.00; 500 copies, $20.00; 1,000 copies, $35.00; 5,000 copies, $140.00; 10,000 copies, $265.00.

LUBRICANTS, OILS & GREASE. Giving practical information regarding their composition, uses and manufacture. By I. I. Redwood. IX + 54 pages, 3 folding plates, 8¼ x 5½ in., cloth, $1.75.

BOOKS FOR MODEL MAKERS

SPON'S MECHANICS OWN BOOK. A manual for handy craftsmen and amateurs, 7th edition, 706 pages, 1,424 illustrations, 7¾ x 5¾ in., cloth, $2.50.

SPON'S WORKSHOPS RECEIPTS. The most reliable Encyclopedia of receipts and processes in four handy volumes, profusely illustrated, over 2,000 pages, per set $8.00.

SIMPLE SOLDERING. Both hard and soft, with directions for making home-made apparatus. By E. Thatcher. VIII + 76 pages, 52 illustrations, 7¼ x 5 in., 75 cents.

THE ENGINEERS SKETCH-BOOK of Mechanical Movements, Appliances, Contrivances and Details by T. W. Barber, 6th ed., 355 pages, 2,987 illustrations, 8¾ x 5¾ in., cloth $4.00.

PICTORIAL HOUSE MODELLING. A practical manual explaining how to make models of buildings. By E. W. Hobbs. 190 pages, 128 illustrations, cloth, $2.50.

WONDERFUL MODELS, an Encyclopedia covering all branches of Model-making, containing 1,152 pages, 18 folding plates, and hundreds of illustrations, in two volumes, cloth, 8½ x 6¾ in., $10.50.

CLIPPER SHIP MODELS, How to Make, from the simple waterline types to fine exhibition models, 230 pages, 206 illustrations and plates, 8½ x 5¾ in., cloth, $4.00.

MODEL SAILING YACHTS, how to rig, build and sail them, by P. Marshall. The most practical handbook covering the latest designs. 112 pages, 59 illus., 7¼ x 5 in., limp boards. 75 cents.

MODEL SAILING BOATS, their design, building and sailing. By E. W. Hobb. The best work on this subject. 319 pages, 352 illus., and working drawings, 8¼ x 5¾ in., cloth, $2.50.

MODEL RAILWAYS, their design, details and practical construction, rolling stock, operation and maintenance, by H. Greenly, 315 pages, 399 illus., 8¼ x 5½ in., cloth, $2.50.

MODEL ENGINEERING. Describing tools and equipment, how to use the tools, and to execute the numerous processes involved. Giving the details of steam, gas, and electric models. Showing the functions of the various parts and explaining step by step the actual workshop methods of building them. Including the construction of boilers, locomotives, &c., &c. By Henry Greenly. VII + 407 pages, 809 illustrations, 8¼ x 5¾ in., cloth, $3.50.

MODEL ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVES AND RAILWAYS, by Henry Greenly. Design, development, construction and running, including equipment. The latest word on this scientific hobby. 313 pages, 325 illus., 8¼ x 5¾ in., cloth, $2.50.

MODEL STEAM LOCOMOTIVES, their details and practical construction, by Henry Greenly. Considered the very best work on the subject. 316 pages, 377 illus. and detailed drawings, 8¼ x 5¾ in.. cloth. $2.50

MODEL STEAM TURBINES. How to design and build them. By H. H. Harrison. A practical handbook for model makers. 85 pages, 75 illustrations, paper, 35 cents.

MODEL STEAM ENGINE DESIGN. A handbook of practical information, formulas and tables. By R. M. DeVignier. IX + 94 pages, 34 illustrations, 7¼ x 5, paper, 35 cents.

WINDMILLS & WIND MOTORS. How to build and run them. By F. E. Powell. Practical guide to the construction of small windmills with detail drawings. VI + 78 pages, 76 illustrations, 7¼ x 5 in., cloth, 75 cents.

PRACTICAL LESSONS IN METAL TURNING AND SCREW CUTTING, by P. Marshall. A very practical handbook, plainly written, giving a variety of examples of work in a lathe. 217 pages, 220 illus., 7¼ x 5 in., cloth, $1.25.

HOW TO BUILD A TWENTY-FOOT BIPLANE GLIDER, by A. P. Morgan. A practical handbook on the construction of one of these machines, with full detailed drawings. 60 pages. 31 illustrations, cloth, 75 cents.

ALGEBRA SELF TAUGHT, by W. P. Higgs. For the use of home students, mechanics and young engineers. 104 pages, 7¼ x 5 in., cloth, 75 cents.

ENGINEERING MATHEMATICS SIMPLY EXPLAINED, by H. H. Harrison. Commencing with simple Algebra and leading up step by step to calculus with numerous examples worked out. 172 pages, 62 illus., 7¼ x 5 in., cloth. $1.00.

PRACTICAL ENGRAVING ON METAL, including hints on Saw Piercing, Carving, Inlaying, etc., by G. A. B. 3rd edition revised. 161 pages, 100 illus., 7¼ x 5 in., boards, 80 cents.

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS

GALVANIZING. A theoretical and practical treatise by Heinz Bablik including hot galvanized coatings; electro-galvanized coatings; Sherardized coatings; and the Schoop process. Rust and its prevention. Testing and judging galvanized coatings. Index 168 pages, 84 illus., 9¼x6 in., cloth, $5.00.

BRASS FOUNDERS' ALLOYS, a practical handbook containing many useful tables, data and formula, second edition revised, by J. F. Buchanan. 233 pages, illustrated, 7½ x 5 in., cloth, $4.00.

LAMINATED SPRINGS, by T. H. Sanders. Calculations, Design and Manufacture for locomotive, automobile and trolley cars. 8½ x 5½ in., cloth 10.00

SPRINGS AND SUSPENSION. Part 2, cloth, $12.00.

SPRINGS, COIL SPRINGS, MISCELLANEOUS. Part 3 in the press.

AERIAL CABLEWAYS. A Handbook for constructors and engineers, giving rules, formulae and useful technical data, for building and maintaining them. By G. Ceretti, translated by W. J. Walker. 116 pages, 33 illustrations, cloth, $2.00.

REINFORCED CONCRETE, Practical designing in. With examples worked out in detail for beams, floors, and columns, etc. By M. T. Cantell. Part 1, 277 pages, 122 illustrations, 8¾ x 5¾ in., cloth, $5.50.

CONCRETE DAM CONSTRUCTION. The Caisson as a new element in Concrete Dam Construction. By O. G. Aichel. 32 pages, 2 diagrams, 6 large folding plates, 9¾ x 7¼ in., paper, $1.00

WARMING BUILDINGS BY HOT WATER. By F. W. Dye. 4th edition, revised, 221 pages, 126 illustrations, cloth, $4.00.

MOLESWORTH'S POCKET BOOK OF ENGINEERING FORMULAE. 938 pages, illustrated, limp leather, $2.25.

MARINE PROPELLERS. By S. W. Barnaby. 6th edition, revised, 222 pages, 56 illustrations, cloth, $6.00.

WELL-BORING, for water, brine, and oil. By C. Isler. 3rd edition, revised and enlarged, 259 pages, 119 illustrations, cloth, $6.00.

RATIONAL MECHANICS. Chapters in modern dynamics and energetics, mechanical theory, fluid friction, work transformed into heat, least action, etc. By Lieut.-Col. R. DeVillamil. 224 pages, 26 illustrations, cloth, $4.00.

MECHANICS OF ROWING, an introduction to the art of rowing, and a practical method of solving its mechanical problems. By W. B. Coventry. 78 pages, illustrated, cloth, $1.75.

NATURAL PHILOSOPHY. Principles of. By F. J. B. Cordeiro. In this book, the action of the tidal couple in changing the axial inclination of a planet, is rigorously demonstrated. vi. 113 pages, 25 diagrams, 8¼ x 5½ in., cloth, $2.50

DIESEL ENGINES, Marine and Stationary, described and illustrated with numerous formulae for their design, and instructions for installing operations by A. H. Goldingham, 3rd edition, considerably enlarged, 264 pages, 181 illus. and folding plates, 9 x 6 in., cloth, $7.50.

THE DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION OF OIL ENGINES, by A. H. Goldingham. 5th ed. with 140 pages of new matter. Devoted to Modern High Compression Engines. The balance of the work treats on Earlier types of Low Compression Oil Engines. With full directions for testing, installing, operating and repair. 480 pages, 200 illustrations, 7½ x 5½ in., cloth $2.50

AERONAUTICAL ENGINES. A critical survey with special reference to the balancing of inertia forces. By F. J. Kean. 101 pages, 31 plates, 8 x 5½ in., cloth, $2.50.

FRENCH MEASURES AND ENGLISH EQUIVALENTS. Giving equivalents in inches, and decimals of an inch, of from 1 to 1000 milimetres, and 1 to 100 metres, and table of fractional parts of an inch with corresponding decimals. By J. Brook. 80 pages, 4 x 3 in., limp cloth. 50 cents.

MOLESWORTH METRICAL TABLES, containing linear, square, cubic and capacity measures; weights; combinations; prices; electrical, etc.; heat. 95 pages, 5 x 3 in., cloth, 75 cents.

BUCHANAN'S TABLES OF SQUARES. Containing the square of every foot, inch, and sixteenth of an inch between 1/16 of an inch and 50 feet. By E. E. Buchanan. 11th

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS

DISTILLATION OF ALCOHOL. A practical handbook on the, from farm products, also the process of denaturing alcohol. By F. B. Wright. Second edition. 281 pages, 52 illustrations and 8 folding plates. 7½ x 5 in., cloth, $2.50.

SODA FOUNTAIN FORMULAS. A practical receipt book of nearly 500 formulas for druggists, confectioners and vendors of soda water. By G. H. Dubelle. Fourth edition, 161 pages. 7¼ x 5 in., cloth, $1.50.

THE MANUFACTURE OF CHOCOLATE, and other cacao preparations, by Dr. Paul Zipperer. 3rd ed. revised and partly re-written. Considered the most practical work on this subject. X + 333 pages, 102 illus., and 3 folding plates, 9¾ x 7 in., cloth, $7.50.

A POCKETBOOK FOR CHEMISTS. By T. Bayley. 9th edition, 460 pages, cloth, $2.50.

TECHNICAL CHEMISTS' POCKETBOOK. A collection of useful notes, tables and data. By R. Ensoll. 204 pages, 31 illustrations, cloth, $2.50.

PAPER AND ITS CONSTITUENTS. A manual of technical methods, chemistry and analysis of raw materials, paper making fibres, bleaching, sizing, loading, dyeing, etc. By H. A. Bromley. 240 pages, 8 illustrations, cloth, $6.00.

A TEXTBOOK OF PAPERMAKING. By C. F. Cross and E. J. Bevan. 5th edition, 540 pages, 17 plates, 99 illustrations, cloth, $10.00.

THE PRINCIPLES OF LEATHER MANUFACTURE. By H. R. Procter. 2nd edition, revised and enlarged. 696 pages, 130 illustrations, cloth, $12.00.

THE LEATHER CHEMISTS POCKETBOOK. By H. R. Procter. 223 pages, illustrated, cloth, $3.00.

THE PUERING, BATING AND DRENCHING OF SKINS. By J. T. Wood, 300 pages, 31 illustrations, cloth, $4.00.

CERAMIC GLAZES. Arranged for heat of the soft porcelain kiln. By H. Rum Bellow. Series A, Leadless Sanitary Glazes for hard waterproof glazed brick and stone; porcelain enamelled fire-clay sanitary ware; soft porcelain; strong clay ware. From the seven charts formulas for any admixture of glazed materials can be obtained. Folio, cloth, $10.00.

WATCH AND CLOCKMAKERS HANDBOOK, DICTIONARY, AND GUIDE. By F. J. Britten. 13th edition, 504 pages, illustrated, cloth, $5.00.

OLD CLOCKS AND WATCHES, and their makers, by F. J. Britten. The most authoritative work on this subject, profusely illustrated, 822 pages, 9 x 6¼ in., cloth, $12.00.

TIME OF THE WORLD. Universal Time Card Model. Printed in two colors on stiff card, with movable disk, 9 x 7 in., 35 cents.

THE GYROSCOPE, Theory and Practice, by F. J. B. Cordeiro, the most complete treatise on this subject. VII + 105 pages, 8¼ x 6½ in., cloth, $1.50.

THE GYROSCOPE. Its practical construction and application. By P. P. Schilovsky. 234 pages, 107 illustrations, cloth, $5.00.

THE GYROSCOPE, an experimental study from spinning-top to mono-rail. By V. E. Johnson. 52 pages, 25 illustrations, cloth, $1.00.

BAROMETRICAL DETERMINATION OF HEIGHTS. A practical method of barometrical levelling and hypsometry. By F. J. B. Cordeiro. Second edition, revised and enlarged, 6 x 4 in., limp cloth, 50 cents.

THE ATMOSPHERE, ITS CHARACTERISTICS AND DYNAMICS, by F. J. B. Cordeiro. VIII + 129 pages, 35 illustrations, 10¼ x 7½ in., cloth, $2.50.

NEW AND ORIGINAL MAGIC. Comprising a number of novel and entertaining effects; a fund of information for the artist and his younger brother the amateur, by Edward M. Massey. 205 pages, 28 pages plates, 11 illus., 8¼ x 5¾ in., dark blue fabricoid, with elaborate gold cover stamp, $3.00.

LATEST MAGIC, by Prof. Hoffmann. Being Original Conjuring Tricks, including new appliances, novel application of Black Art, card tricks, miscellaneous tricks, patter, use of the wand, a few wrinkles. The Author's Latest Work. 232 pages, 42 illus., 8¼ x 5¾ in., cloth gilt. $2.00.

SPONS' HOUSEHOLD REPAIRS. An illustrated guide for the householder making his own repairs. 132 pages, 98 illustrations, cloth, $1.00.

THE HANDY SKETCHING BOOK, ruled plain, 8ths to one inch, printed on both sides, 100 pages, 7¼ x 5 in., cloth, $1.00.

PAINTING AND LETTERING

DECORATION AND RENOVATION OF THE HOME, by A. S. Jennings. With a chapter on period furniture from a decorative point of view by H. E. Binstead. 220 pages, 14 colored plates and other illus., 11½ x 8 in., cloth $5.00

STANFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, CALIFORNIA

The books in this catalogue are arranged according to six classifications. The first, or general group, includes all those titles which do not fall definitely within the more specific limits of the other five. Group two includes the biological sciences. Group three contains all those titles pertaining to hygiene and medicine. Group four consists of books in language and literature, group five, the physical sciences, and group six, the social sciences. Publications of the Graduate School of Business, the Food Research Institute, and the Dudley Herbarium, likewise certain periodicals printed at the Press, are also listed. Complete indexes by titles and authors in the back of the catalogue facilitate its use.

All titles are available either through your dealer or on direct order from this Press.

General Titles

*ART PRINCIPLES IN HOUSE, FURNITURE, AND VILLAGE BUILDING

By Arthur Bridgman Clark

A sympathetic non-technical guide for the home planner, builder, or teacher of graphic art. With generous explanatory illustration throughout, the author emphasizes the all-importance of basic harmony of design and fitness of design to size, location, and grounds. Furniture design is also considered, as are city planning and the development of new residential sections. The material used is purposely familiar to the extent that it becomes comprehensible to everyone.

1921. Illustrated. Postpaid, $3.00

*MUSIC IN ANCIENT ARABIA AND SPAIN

By Julian Ribera, translated by Eleanor Hague and Marion Leffingwell

Histories of music have heretofore left something of a hiatus in our knowledge of the art between the classical period and the age of the troubadours. This translation of Julian Ribera's work supplies much of the wanting material. It includes information upon medieval musical development gleaned from thirteenth-century manuscripts set aside by earlier scholars as unintelligible. There is revealed Spain's anticipation of the rest of Europe in achieving a high degree of musical excellence through development of early Arabian, Moorish, Byzantine, and Persian music.

*LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE: A Series of Letters

By Stephen Child

Twelve typical problems, calling forth a clear interpretation of the ideals of landscape planning, are discussed by the author in a series of letters, addressed by the landscape architect to his mythical client. A proper and harmonious treatment for home grounds, gardens, neighborhoods, hotel grounds, and village and city improvement and design are suggested, with clear and concise explanatory cuts and drawings. The type problems are set forth in logical order, free from technicalities, with solutions based on the fundamental principles of scientific landscaping.

*NATURAL CONDUCT

By Edwin B. Copeland

In the determination of those choices which man in his freedom must exercise, Dr. Copeland resorts to the systems of nature and the revelations of modern biology. He ignores in his treatment conventional metaphysical analyses, theological inheritances, and exaltations of tradition and taboo. The conclusions are a striking commentary on Emerson's dictum, "Hitch your wagon to a star!" in its original significance, that of the essential oneness of utility and righteousness.

*"OH, RANGER!" A Book about the National Parks

By Horace M. Albright and Frank J. Taylor

Two men who for years have been in close contact with the national park service have here written its first complete record. They have gathered together both the written and the unwritten lore of the parks and have woven into this material the adventures of the rangers, dudes, and sagebrushers. Stories about the beginnings of the service, about the scenic attractions offered by the parks, about bears, Indians, fishing, trail clubs—everything pertaining to these national vacation areas is included. Generously illustrated with full-page photographs and humorous pen sketches by Ruth Taylor White.

THE TREND OF THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

By David Starr Jordan

In three essays the dean of American educators sums up the progress of the past half-century in the American university. He cites the origins of our present-day institution, the influences which have given it form and purpose, and the goal to which it looks today. These essays present a panorama of the development of higher education from 1888 to 1928, representing the mature consideration of an outstanding leader in modern education.

Edition limited to 250 copies, signed and numbered, of which 240 are for sale. Printed in a large, clear type on white, laid-finish, deckle-edge paper, bound in dark cardinal suede leather.

THE GENERA OF FISHES

These volumes constitute a definite contribution to the stability of scientific nomenclature. The science of ichthyology, to which the present series of papers offer a key, is the work of many scholars, each in his own field, each contributing a series of facts, a series of tests of the work of others, or else some improvement in the method of arrangement. In so far as these papers assume to decide questions of nomenclature, they follow strictly the rules agreed upon by the International Commission. The most vital of these is concerned with the rigid enforcement of the law of priority.

*ILLUSTRATED FLORA OF THE PACIFIC STATES

By LeRoy Abrams

The aim of this work is to furnish an authentic reference book that will be of greatest service not only to the trained botanist but to everyone interested in the native plant life of the Pacific States. Every species of fern, flower, tree, and shrub known to grow wild in the Pacific States is illustrated and described. In the preparation of the illustrations, drawings have been made either from fresh material or from herbarium specimens, and under the direct supervision of the author or the special contributor.

STANFORD LABORATORY GUIDES: Biology

Beginning in zoölogy and comparative anatomy, the Stanford Laboratory Guides are being extended to include other fields of natural science. The four handbooks listed below will be found suitable for a comprehensive course in comparative anatomy. The first three are dissection manuals for laboratory guidance on the dogfish, the turtle, and the toad. The fourth is a series of twelve outline lectures which may be used as a reference text or in lieu of verbal lectures in the course. Each manual deals with a representative species of which specimens are readily available and is prepared by authorities familiar through experience with the needs of the classroom and the laboratory.

*PERSONAL HYGIENE FOR WOMEN

By Clelia Duel Mosher

"Being a woman is no reason for not being perfectly well." With this line of reasoning as her theme, Dr. Mosher builds her health suggestions around the idea that women have the ability to do efficient work at all times. She combats the age-old tradition of feminine incapacity with well-tried measures of relief, and offers to the public the practical results of years spent as medical adviser to women at Stanford University. In the opinion of Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, "It is the best brief book of advice for women ever written. Its pages," he says, "will answer ninety per cent of the questions asked by the average woman in regard to her health." The book is a model in its avoidance of complex and highly technical medical terms.

A STATISTICAL STUDY OF THREE THOUSAND AUTOPSIES

By William Ophüls

A careful survey of post-mortem examinations made by Dr. Ophüls, dean of the Stanford Medical School, and his associates during the years 1900 to 1923. Most of these autopsies were performed at the Stanford Hospital or the Municipal Hospital of San Francisco.

Findings of this survey are of immediate significance in considering the death-rate and relative frequency of various diseases and abnormalities. This study considers complete autopsies only. The patients represent nearly every group of society.

THE STATUS OF HYGIENE PROGRAMS IN INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION IN THE UNITED STATES

By Thomas A. Storey

This report is based upon an appraisal of hygiene programs maintained in 422 American institutions of higher education. Of all the agencies engaged in combating health ignorance, Dr. Storey finds the combined physical education and hygiene programs of these institutions by far the most powerful. More or less united upon common ideals, they may realize common purposes in health education.

THE BIRDS OF THE LATIN POETS

By Ernest Whitney Martin
1914. Postpaid, paper, $1.00; cloth, $1.50

THE CLASSICS AND OUR TWENTIETH-CENTURY POETS

By Henry Rushton Fairclough

Dr. Fairclough calls attention to the abundant classic references found in the work of our modern poets. The argument of the book is unique in its use of a wealth of colorful instances in which this reference stands out most clearly. This objective treatment and presenting of concrete evidence alone mark the study as outstanding.

1927. Postpaid, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00

DRAMATISCHE SITUATIONSBILDER UND -BILDTYPEN

By August C. Mahr

In this work a Situationsbild is taken as the entirety of expressive means employed by a dramatist, and hence a criterion of artistic expression in general. Analyzing Situationsbilder, depicting similar situations in representative plots embodying hatred between father and son from Sophocles down to the present, the author finds a significant relationship between the style of the drama and that of figurative art. In German.

1929. Postpaid, paper, $1.00; cloth, $1.50

EMERSON: A Statement of New England Transcendentalism as Expressed in the Philosophy of Its Chief Exponent

By Henry David Gray

A study of Emerson's religious and philosophical ideas as expressed in his poetry and essays. The author has chosen Emerson as perhaps the greatest of the New England poets of this period and as the one most concerned with controversial matters of a philosophical nature.

1917. Postpaid, paper, 75 cents; cloth, $1.25

THE FLÜGEL MEMORIAL VOLUME

By Ewald Flügel and His Colleagues and Students

A series of philological papers collected and published in memory of Ewald Flügel, late professor of English philology in Stanford University, by a group of his colleagues. The first article is an unfinished paper on the history of English philology by Dr. Flügel.

1916. Postpaid, paper, $1.50; cloth, $2.50

*JAMES BOSWELL'S "THE HYPOCHONDRIACK"

Margery Bailey, Editor

The London Magazine for the years 1777–1783 carried a series of anonymous articles under the title of "The Hypochondriack." These articles, edited with notes and a critical introduction by Dr. Margery Bailey, provide the material for these volumes. Boswell, the author of the series, is revealed herein as a character infinitely less trivial than previous writers and critics would have us believe. The book gives us many new glimpses of his great master, Dr. Johnson, as well as a kaleidoscopic cross-section of the late eighteenth-century London life in which he moved.

The Hypochondriack is printed in Caslon Old Face type with tied letters, on a high grade of antique laid paper. The binding is black silk-finish cloth, silver stamped, to convey as nearly as possible the flavor of the original.

1928. Two volumes, boxed. Postpaid, $15.00

LIFE AND TIMES OF APOLLONIUS OF TYANA

Rendered into English, from the Greek of Philostratus, the Elder, by Charles P. Eells

The pungent biography of one of the most absorbing Greek philosophers of the early Christian era. A follower of the austere philosophy of the Pythagorean school, Apollonius traveled the length and breadth of the known world during the first century A.D., spreading his beliefs through the example of his own strictly-lived life. This story is the most striking and comprehensive presentation of the daily life of this period that has come down to us.

1923. Postpaid, paper, $2.00; cloth, $2.75

THE MATZKE MEMORIAL VOLUME

By John Ernst Matzke and Thirteen Colleagues

A volume dedicated to the late Professor Matzke of Stanford University, containing his unpublished studies and papers contributed by his colleagues of the philological departments.

1911. Postpaid, paper, $1.00; cloth, $1.50

MEDITERRANEAN STUDIES

By George Hempl. Edited by Frederick Anderson

A collection of papers on the origins and relationships of Greek and other Mediterranean languages, by the late Stanford philologist, George Hempl.

THE MODERN ENGLISH VERB-ADVERB COMBINATION

By Arthur Garfield Kennedy

1920. Postpaid, paper, 75 cents; cloth, $1.25

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

PARALLEL-PASSAGE EDITION, EDITED BY ALPHONSO GERALD NEWCOMER, LATE PROFESSOR OF ENGLISH, STANFORD UNIVERSITY; COMPLETED BY HENRY DAVID GRAY

In an attempt to clear up early obscurities and the precise determination of shades of meaning in the works of Shakespeare, the late Professor A. G. Newcomer of Stanford University began this parallel-passage edition of the less understood plays. The work on the first play being cut short by Dr. Newcomer's death, Professor H. D. Gray has completed this section of the proposed study.

1929. Postpaid, paper, $2.00; cloth, $2.75

*ONE WORD MORE ON BROWNING

BY FRANCES THERESA RUSSELL

With the passage of a quarter of a century since the end of the Victorian era the growth of a proper perspective has demanded a definite reappraisal of some of its most familiar figures. In the light of the newer and stricter standards of criticism Browning is re-evaluated. Mrs. Russell has enumerated the lasting qualities of the man and his work in this series of stimulating essays.

"A collection of spirited and scholarly essays whose connecting links make them an excellent guide-book for the intelligent reading and study of Browning. The bibliography attached to this book would in itself make it indispensable to the student."—Saturday Review of Literature.

1927. Postpaid, $2.50

THE ORIGINAL VERSION OF "LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST," WITH A CONJECTURE AS TO "LOVE'S LABOUR'S WON"

BY HENRY DAVID GRAY

An essay which was written as an attempt to furnish a key to the original version of Love's Labour's Lost, so that anyone interested may mark the passages in his own working edition of the play. With supplementary notes.

1918. Postpaid, paper, 75 cents; cloth, $1.25

THE PRONOUN OF ADDRESS IN ENGLISH LITERATURE OF THE THIRTEENTH CENTURY

By Arthur Garfield Kennedy

1915. Postpaid, paper, $1.00; cloth, $1.50

*THE WAY: Christ and Evolution

By Princess Eleanor (Calhoun) Lazarovich-Hrebelianovich, with a foreword by David Starr Jordan

A study in play form of the bearings of scientific discovery on the interpretation of Christ: a theory of life submitted as a basis of organized human development. The author would have science and religion combined as running-mates in the development of humanity. Her drama is an appeal for the eventual friendly union of these two civilizing forces.

STANFORD SPANISH SERIES

Aurelio M. Espinosa, General Editor

A series of low-priced, carefully-edited school texts dealing for the most part with contemporary Spanish and Spanish-American literature, though containing some selections from the classic period. They are prepared, written, and edited by men whose classroom teaching experience has made them familiar with effective methods of subject presentation. This series offers to teachers the opportunity of creating in the student an interest in Spanish literature at the same time that they are mastering the details of the language.

LECCIONES DE LITERATURA ESPAÑOLA

By Aurelio M. Espinosa

This first book of the series, by Professor Espinosa, gives an introduction to the great literature and writers of Spain and at the same time provides reading practice for upper high-school and first-year college classes. An attempt is made in the book to present the main facts of Spanish literary history and the works of the great masters in direct relation to political history and general cultural development. Contains thirty Lecciones with questionnaires and an adequate vocabulary.

1927. Illustrated. Cloth, postpaid, $1.40

A BRIEF ANTHOLOGY OF MEXICAN VERSE

By S. L. Millard Rosenberg and E. H. Templin

A selection of Mexican lyrics intended to introduce to the American student a field of Spanish-American letters that has so far had but scant attention in American textbooks. The poets considered begin with Francisco de Terrazas, the first native poet of Mexico, mentioned by Cervantes in his Canto de Calíope. From Terrazas the list runs with a representative inclusiveness down to Rafael Lopez of the modern period. Among the marked advantages of this Spanish-American study is the fact that it brings the student into contact with the literature of a neighboring nation, more or less familiar to him.

1928. Illustrated. Cloth, postpaid, $1.50

A BRIEF ANTHOLOGY OF MEXICAN PROSE

By S. L. Millard Rosenberg and E. H. Templin

The third book of the Stanford Spanish Series also concerns itself with Mexican literature. The body of the text matter is composed of extracts from the work of the outstanding prose writers of Mexico. Arrangement of the extracts is chronological, beginning with names from the earliest days of Mexican literary history and continuing through to the modern period. The section devoted to each author is preceded by a short biographical sketch and an estimate of the contribution which his work makes to the whole of Mexico's literature. Edited with notes and vocabulary.

Alfred Coester, Editor [In preparation]

LUGIN'S LA CASA DE LA TROYA

ARTHUR L. OWEN, EDITOR [In preparation]

GALDÓS' JUAN MARTÍN EL EMPECINADO

PAUL ROGERS, EDITOR

A historical novel by the master of the modern Spanish novel, Benito Pérez Galdós. This is one of his famous Episodios Nacionales and is a thrilling historical account of the life of one of the Spanish national heroes of the war waged against the French during the last years of the Napoleonic invasion of Spain. It will be prepared with introduction, notes, and vocabulary, and a set of direct-method exercises.

1929. Cloth, postpaid, $1.60

STANFORD SPANISH TESTS

BY AURELIO M. ESPINOSA AND TRUMAN L. KELLEY

These tests have been prepared as measures of general achievement in high schools and colleges. The objective character of the tests, their validity, and their reliability have been worked out carefully after much experimentation. They offer to teachers of Spanish accurate measures of achievement in Spanish grammar, vocabulary, and reading. They may be used either as placement tests at the beginning of any school term or as general measures of actual achievement at the end of the term. To this end the tests are prepared in two alternative forms, A and B, each form containing three parts, covering Grammar, Vocabulary, and Paragraph Meaning. Reliability results have been most gratifying, the reliability of a single grade being uniformly high (.90) throughout the high school and the university.

The tests are sold in package lots only, postpaid, at the following prices:

25 copies of a single test, complete, net $0.80

CUENTOS POPULARES ESPAÑOLES

BY AURELIO M. ESPINOSA

The most important and abundant single collection of Spanish folk-tales ever published, the three volumes containing 280 popular tales collected by the author in Spain in 1920. This was done under the auspices of the American Folklore Society and the Junta para Ampliacion de Estudios of the University of Madrid. The collection contains tales from all parts of Spain, all printed in the original dialectic versions as recited by the people.

Volumes I–III of the collection give the texts of the tales in their various versions. A comparative study of the materials, now in preparation, will be published as Volume IV.

ANALYTICAL PRINCIPLES OF THE PRODUCTION OF OIL, GAS, AND WATER FROM WELLS

By Stanley C. Herold

"This volume represents the first attempt to state the fundamental laws governing fluid delivery from oil and gas wells, and it will prove to be the foundation for further advances of knowledge.

"The problems of mutual interference of wells, spacing of wells, recovery of oil and gas, drainage of a pool by a well or a group of wells, and other important problems that have confronted the industry, the judiciary, and the government can only be solved by the application of the theory expounded in this treatise."—C. THE MARINE SHELLS OF THE WEST COAST OF NORTH AMERICA

By Ida Shepard Oldroyd

The purpose of this work is to bring together the marine shells of the west coast of North America from the Arctic Ocean to San Diego, giving the original description, whereabouts of the type and type locality, and geographical and geological range. The author has been engaged continuously for eight years in its preparation at Stanford University and in the field from Puget Sound to San Diego. It has been the purpose of the writer to make her book useful to the amateur as well as to the professional conchologist.

QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS OF BLOOD, URINE, AND MILK

By James Murray Luck

This laboratory guide is intended for use in a course to be described as the quantitative analysis of blood and urine. A rotating method is employed, in which members of the class perform different analyses daily, and move from place to place as directed by the assignment chart. Simplicity, rapidity, accuracy, and adaptability are the criteria held to in the selection of analytical methods indicated. The left-hand pages are left free for note taking.

CROSSROADS IN THE MIND OF MAN: A Study of Differentiable Mental Abilities

By Truman L. Kelley

This study is an experimental attempt to determine what mental traits present throughout life act independently of one another. Dr. Kelley's chief concern is with the establishment of a technique for testing the agreement of any postulation of independent mental traits with observed facts.

The determination of these traits, of their laws of functioning, and of adult activities demanding them should, for the sake of eugenics, be a prenuptial concern; should, for efficient nurture, be a matter for continual note in the rearing of the individual; should, for social efficiency, be a determining influence in the choice of a vocation.

*EDUCATION FOR WORLD-CITIZENSHIP

By William G. Carr

In the belief that local citizenship is no longer adequate to meet the needs of modern living, the author presents this book as a means of introducing training for a larger usefulness. These means take the form of an organization and a presentation of the aims, methods, and subject-matter of training for world-citizenship as an addition to the aims, methods, and subject-matter of purely local or national civic training.

It includes a logical extension of the program of civic training already in effect to include the wider aspects of citizenship. This proposed program would have as its object the promotion of a sympathetic, peaceful co-operation among all peoples, based on democracy.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE: Its Organization and Administration

By William M. Proctor and Others

Eleven men, each in close touch with the junior college movement, tell in this book what they know of the subject, unfavorable as well as favorable. It presents an inside view of the junior college in actual operation. In a single volume a variety of topics are discussed as affecting various types of junior colleges—city, large rural, small union, teacher's college, etc. It answers concisely and definitely questions of the functions, purposes, and organization of the junior college, and develops the relation of the college to the state, the student, the high school, and the university. In the words of the Sierra Educational News, it is a study "of real importance to the educational world."

GENETIC STUDIES OF GENIUS

LEWIS M. TERMAN, EDITOR

Under the series title Genetic Studies of Genius are presented the results of a continuing scientific study of the origin of genius, its natural development, and the environmental influences which may affect it. The study, one of the most comprehensive ever attempted, is being carried on at Stanford under the leadership of Dr. Lewis M. Terman. The value of the work lies not alone in the conclusions reached, but also in the opening of what may be declared practically a virgin field of research. The workers aim to establish means whereby unusual ability may be recognized in the child and, once recognized, developed to its highest point of usefulness both to the individual and to the world.

VOL. I. MENTAL AND PHYSICAL TRAITS OF A THOUSAND GIFTED CHILDREN

BY LEWIS M. TERMAN AND OTHERS

The first volume of the series is concerned primarily with the nature of genius, in so far as this is indicated by the mental and physical traits of intellectually superior children. The particular purpose has been to determine in what respects the typical gifted child differs from the typical child of average mentality.

The work is based on an exhaustive study of 1,400 school children, each ranking well within the top 1 per cent of the unselected school population. Over a period of years data were collected covering the mental and physical equipment, tastes, and habits of the group tested.

"The report brings out points of great interest in psychologic, biologic, and educational fields, and should be read and studied by all who are interested in such problems."—Journal of the American Medical Association.

Revised (2d) edition, 1926. Postpaid, $6.50

VOL. II. EARLY MENTAL TRAITS OF THREE HUNDRED GENIUSES

BY CATHARINE MORRIS COX

Early Mental Traits of Three Hundred Geniuses aims at characterizing, with respect to certain mental traits, a group of youths who later became eminent. The study was based on historical records of the childhood and youth of 301 of the world's most eminent men and women living in the period 1450–1850.

The characteristics and native abilities which marked these youths for future greatness are here examined and evaluated. The group studied is so representative that conclusions must hold true for geniuses in general, while no work dealing with the early years of such divergent figures as Napoleon and Pasteur, Lincoln and Mozart, can lack interest and vitality. This study of the traits of genius should prove of inestimable value to those responsible for the welfare of children.

STANFORD EDUCATIONAL APTITUDES TEST

By Milton B. Jensen

The Stanford Educational Aptitudes Test is a comparative measure of special ability in the individual for teaching, for research work in education, or for school administration. It offers reliable estimates of the field or fields in education in which one may reasonably expect to do his best work. Its aim is that of a guide both to the student and to the teacher-training institution.

STANFORD TESTS IN COMPREHENSION OF LITERATURE

By Mary C. Burch

These tests accomplish for the high-school English teacher a three-fold purpose. They classify the students of junior or senior high-school classes into ability groups for purposes of instruction in literature. They determine growth in reading ability in an individual or a group over a period of time. And they uncover the most effective literature for study in a group previously established. The norms and consistently high reliabilities have been established after long investigation. Test I treats of narration and description. Test II covers character and emotion, while Test III deals with exposition. They are prepared in alternative forms (A and B), for use in placement and achievement testing.

*ON THE TRAIL OF THE RUSSIAN FAMINE

By Frank A. Golder and Lincoln Hutchinson

This book gives us a truthful and simply told narrative of events and conditions during the Russian famine years of 1921–1923. Devoid of one-sided political or social considerations, it is a clear-cut story of a starving Russia during the early years of her readjustment, and of America's part in relieving her stricken people. The authors were American Relief Administration investigators, both unbiased students of Russian history and institutions. "No one interested in the changes that are going on today in Russia can afford to neglect this volume."—New York Sun.

FORMS AND SUGGESTIONS FOR CALIFORNIA PRACTICE

By William Brownlee Owens

This work occupies a unique place in the law library; it makes readily available the forms most frequently used in California practice, without blanks, exactly as they should be typed, thus giving the stenographer an accurate guide both as to substance and appearance of the forms. The 1928 edition is printed in two volumes for convenience in office use, on a high grade of bond paper. It embodies changes made in the code by the 1927 legislature. Each volume is tabbed for quick reference, and each carries a complete index.

*INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION FROM ATHENS TO LOCARNO

By Jackson H. Ralston

The material of this book, presenting the theory and history of international tribunals, is arranged in five well-defined parts. The first two explain, in thorough and lucid style, the general principles of judicial settlement between nations and the influences which are working today toward this type of settlement. Part three contains a summarized history of arbitral tribunals from their first appearance in ancient Greece to the present time, while the last two are devoted more particularly to modern considerations, including the Hague Peace Conventions with their results and the still more recently established Permanent Court of International Justice.

THE GOVERNANCE OF HAWAII: A Study in Territorial Administration

By Robert M. C. Littler

The chief difficulty in colonial administration usually lies in the lack of agreement between the interests of the dominant country and those of the native races. In Hawaii, despite the conflicting Oriental, Occidental, and Polynesian racial elements, this difficulty does not exist. The author here examines Hawaiian territorial administration in an effort to discover the reasons for its marked success. His findings are unique in picturing not only the government of Hawaii, but the type of government adopted by the United States for the administration of its insular territorial possessions.

*GREECE TODAY

By Eliot Grinnell Mears

Beset by difficult home and foreign problems, Greece presents a stimulating study to anyone interested in international affairs. In this volume Dr. Mears has turned the spotlight upon modern Greece, depicting the effects of the rapid succession of Balkan Wars, the Great War, the Asia Minor Expedition, and notably the trek of nearly 1,500,000 racial Greeks from Turkey, upon the social, economic, and political structure and relationships of the country. To the tourist and the classical student, the startling parallels between modern and ancient Greece will be particularly significant. The author, who is Professor of Geography and International Trade in Stanford University, was formerly American Resident Trade Commissioner in Greece.

*THE POLITICS OF PEACE

By Charles E. Martin

The author analyzes the governments of the various world-powers, describes their characteristic policies, and suggests the changes that will permit these better to serve modern purposes. In addition he proposes a program for the application of the civilizing agencies of mankind to the ultimate betterment of humanity at large. His conclusions are drawn from carefully presented facts, and are notable for their constructive force. The style is fluent and free from the heaviness of excessive technicalities. Charles E. Martin, the author, is Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Washington.

*THE PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

By Norman L. Hill

The public international conference has for centuries past consisted of the representatives of various states or peoples, convened to act in an organized manner for the solution of their mutual problems. This volume presents a historical sketch of the international conference, describes its organization and procedure, and discusses the relation of its methods to history, diplomacy, and international law. The author defines, in addition, the natural limitations and legitimate sphere of operations of this increasingly useful public instrument.

*THE WASHINGTON CONFERENCE AND AFTER

By Yamato Ichihashi

The first complete story of the Washington Conference of 1921, containing an intimate study of the day-by-day progress of the delegates as they met and solved their twofold problem. This double problem included limitation of armaments by the powers in session, and the unraveling of the tangled thread of international affairs in the Far East and the Pacific. The author was present at all sessions of the conference, both open and private, as secretary and interpreter to the late Viscount Kato, senior delegate of Japan to the conference. Of first importance is Dr. Ichihashi's treatment of results of the conference down to August 15, 1928.

Food Research Institute Publications

The Food Research Institute of Stanford University was established in 1921 jointly by the Carnegie Corporation of New York and the Trustees of Stanford University, for research in the production, distribution, and consumption of food. Directors: Carl Lucas Alsberg, Joseph Stancliffe Davis, Alonzo Englebert Taylor. Its publications, for which orders should preferably be addressed to the Food Research Institute, are in three series: Wheat Studies, Fats and Oils Studies, and Miscellaneous Publications.

Wheat Studies

Wheat Studies are issued monthly, except in April and October, beginning with December 1924. Each annual volume contains a comprehensive review of the world wheat situation during the preceding crop year, three careful surveys of current developments, and six special studies bearing on the interpretation of the wheat situation and outlook, or upon important problems of national policy. Examples of special studies are Canada as a Producer and Exporter of Wheat (Vol. I, No. 8, July 1925), The Decline in Per Capita Consumption of Flour in the United States (Vol. II, No. 8, July 1926), The McNary-Haugen Plan as Applied to Wheat (Vol. III, Nos. 4 and 5, February and March 1927), and Forecasting Wheat Yields from the Weather (Vol. V, No. 1, November 1928). Bound volumes and annual subscriptions, $10.00; review numbers, $2.00; survey numbers, $1.00; special studies variously priced. A full list of titles with prices may be obtained from the Food Research Institute, Stanford University, California.

Fats and Oils Studies

Fats and Oils Studies are issued irregularly, beginning in 1928, in the form of books and pamphlets of varying length. The studies relate to fats and oils of animal and vegetable origin, which are numerous and of increasing importance. The following studies are announced by the Food Research Institute:

No. 1. THE FATS AND OILS: A GENERAL VIEW

EXTRACT FROM "WE GO FOXHUNTING ABROAD"

(Privately printed)

By Charles D. Lanier, Sec'y and Treas. of the Review of Reviews

"In intervals of R. L. S., we read the galley proofs of Harry Worcester Smith's forthcoming book describing his sporting invasion of Westmeath, in Ireland, in 1912, when he took over his American hounds to hunt that country as Master—the only instance, I think, of the use of American hounds in the United Kingdom. He had thoughtfully sent us these advance proofs and they are worth mentioning because the very detailed and voluminous account of his Irish experiences form excellent instruction for any American foxhunter to hazard the Irish banks.

"The volume is always keenly enthusiastic and full of details useful to a sportsman, with now and then a story carrying the true Irish tang."

THE LOW COUNTRY SPEAKS

A Review of "Laguerre, a Gascon of the Black Border," "With Aesop Along the Black Border," "The Captain, Stories of the Black Border"

Hervey Allen, Co-Author of "Carolina Chansons," in The Saturday Review of Literature

The day when even the cultivated reading public confidently expected "The Great Comprehensive American Novel," which was to express the spirit of all these states, has probably passed along with other adolescent literary aspirations. Instead, and in spite of our ruthless standardization, America has wakened to herself by geographical sections. New England, The Hoosier County, and the various divisions of the West can now be dignified by author, book, and dialect. To these the development of the last half-decade has added another section, distinguished in cultural traditions and peculiar to itself ethnically and historically. This is the strip of territory stretching along the South Carolina sea-coast from Georgetown south of Beaufort, into Georgia, penetrating roughly a hundred miles inland, and known locally as the "Low Country." A section which Mr. Ambrose E. Gonzales of Columbia, S. C., whose books we are considering here, has aptly termed the "Black Border."

This romantic and unique section is now thoroughly vocal and awake to its literary possibilities. Some years ago Mr. Heyward and myself in the preface to our collaboration "Carolina Chansons" called attention to its inherent values. Since then, John Bennett writing from Charleston, has contributed his "Madame Margot," a legend of old Charleston, probably still the most colonial city in America; Julia Peterkin writing from Lang Syne Plantation near Columbia, S. C., has given us one of the best and most sympathetic studies of negro plantation life in a generation; Eola Willis has recently added her study of the "Charleston Stage in the 18th Century," replete with the facts and romance of the early American drama; DuBose Heyward in "Skylines and Horizons" has added worthily to his poetical interpretations of his native soil,—and Ambrose E. Gonzales in a series of four rapidly written books, "The Black Border," "The Captain," "With Aesop Along the Black Border," and "Laguerre, a Gascon of the Black Border" has reproduced the strange life of the Low Country with its peculiar and difficult Gullah dialect in a collection of pleasantly humorous stories of Negro characterizations, full of sympathy and pathos.

"Laguerre," the last of the series, may be taken as more or less typical of the others. "A gallant soldier of the Confederacy, formerly a wealthy Sea-Island cotton planter he (Laguerre) lived until about twenty years ago in a cottage on a war-ruined but once splendid plantation; planting a little, hunting now and then. . . . Educated in Paris before the war, and of distinguished Huguenot ancestry, he passionately loved France . . . and in his sensitive honor and courtly manners, and the great blond moustache and imperial worn à la Napoleon III, brought to Toogoodoo a touch of the second empire." Under the greenwood tree, the magnolia and the moss-draped live-oak, Laguerre set up his rural court, and as Justice of the Peace with a grand Gascon manner dispensed a lordly but withal kindly justice to the surrounding Negroes, finding in this compensation for the poverty and restrictions of his environment. The circumstances of the trials, conducted in Gullah, provided characters, jests, and plots for the author. And it is not straining a point to say that these are invariably whimsical, unexpected, and delightful.

"Aesop" and "The Captain" are also collections of short stories about the Negro, all written in the Gullah dialect of the Low Country, which is at once the joy and stumbling block of the reader. Gullah, probably a corruption of Angola, whence many of the Carolina Negroes were brought in the days of the slave-trader, is a pot-pourri of African, French, and English,—all of which have gone the way of least resistance in their reshaping on the thick and lazy lips of the blacks. It is a dialect in the true sense of the word, distinguished by a guttural-quacking sound, and the use of a flat "A." Yard, for instance, is pronounced like "Y" placed before "add." There are also many distinctive words.

Mr. Gonzales is peculiarly fitted to write of the Low Country and about its people in their own patois. He has long lived among them in intimate contact with both Blacks and Whites as editor and owner of The State, one of the few newspapers of his section that has fought consistently for better social, political, and literary standards, even when their upholding meant personal danger. His volumes are published by the State Company of Columbia, S. C., and are well printed, carefully proof-read, well bound, and furnished with attractive wrappers.

Even at this writing it is safe to say that Mr. Gonzales' books are next in order of literary succession to "Uncle Remus" in the plantation tradition and they seem destined to take a by no means dusty place upon the shelf of Americana.

THE BLACK BORDER'S HISTORIAN

HERSCHEL BRICKELL in the New York Evening Post Literary Review

To those who read Mr. Gonzales' delightful book a year or two ago, "The Black Border," the news that he has carried on the tradition to the extent of three more volumes will be most welcome. I know of no one living who can surpass this South Carolinian as a writer of Negro dialect, and he is master of a lingo that would stump any one but a born philologist.

The Negroes in his stories are Gullahs, Gullah probably being a corruption of Angola, whence the forebears of these blacks were brought to the Carolina and Georgia lowlands and the islands that lie off the coast of the two states. The Gullah speech is at once the chiefest charm of Mr. Gonzales' stories and the greatest barrier to their general enjoyment. It presents difficulties that may be surmounted, however, with a little patience and the copious use of the excellent glossary which is a part of "The Black Border."

Once the key is found, the way is open to the enjoyment of some of the most genuinely amusing stories that have ever been written of the Negro race in America. Mr. Gonzales writes mostly of other days when the plantation tradition had not been modified by the hard demands of a mechanistic civilization; he recreates with astonishing verisimilitude the life and times of the post Confederate war period.

When he is not using the Gullah dialect, a speech as rich in quaint turns and picturesque, racy, homely phrases as any I know, he gives us a prose as mellow, as gracious and as rich in color as the Southern autumns of which he writes so happily in "Laguerre."

In this book his central figure is a justice of the peace of Huguenot lineage, who likes nothing better than the sound of his own sonorous voice as he lays down his rough and ready law to the Negroes in his woodland court. Around this temple of justice, roofed over with the blue sky, and around the domestic and social difficulties of the Gullah folk under Laguerre's jurisdiction, Mr. Gonzales has woven one excellent story after another, amusing in no artificial way, but each a genuine study of character in a natural setting.

In "The Captain" are more tales of the Gullahs, in particular one connected story of the parceling of a large plantation among the Negroes which contains the detailed account of the building of a log cabin, a priceless bit of architectural lore. This story is an epic of man's battle with nature and his gradual victory, the fruits of which were lost in this case because the Negroes were lured away by the prospect of work in phosphate mines.

"With Aesop Along the Black Border" is made up of the familiar fables in the Gullah dialect, and very fresh they seem in their new garments. Here, as elsewhere, Mr. Gonzales displays a really amazing grasp of a strange patois, which he writes naturally and fluently.

The Black Border is indeed fortunate to have so fine a historian as Mr. Gonzales. These tales, which he tosses off with such apparent ease and with very evident pleasure to himself, will become in time invaluable records of a vanished period and a passing people.

ALL THE CRITICS ACCLAIM EOLA WILLIS'S PREMIERE

It is not often that a book so much needed comes so aptly and so satisfyingly to meet the distinct need as was the case with this work on "The Charleston Stage" by Miss Eola Willis.

As indicated by the full title—"The Charleston Stage in the XVIII Century, With Social Settings of the Time"—the book is not confined to telling the story of the Stage in Charleston for a crowded century of its course. Its writing, with all the tremendous and pains-taking labor of gathering and ordering its vast details, would have been fully justified, however, even had it been limited to the story of the Stage alone. For in this century were the true beginnings of our national theater, the period in which were laid the solid foundations for all the brilliant and brave achievements that have followed. This alone would make an engaging story—and this story is to be found fully and adequately narrated in Miss Willis's picturesque handling of her large "argument" and intricate scene.

But over and beyond this interest in the Stage, Miss Willis has told us much of the story of the community and port of Charleston and the Carolinian Colony. The "Social Settings of the Time" have been drawn with the eye and brush of the fine painter that she is. She has thus combined the technic of two arts to make her book on the Stage of Charleston in Charleston's most roaring and glowing century a work of enduring value as history and of lasting appeal as picture and story.

The reader gets new views and values of Charleston and the young Colony, working out their own destinies, almost cut off on a vast continent of wilderness, sundered in almost every respect from the Mother Country by the then "estranging sea." Here was rapidly developing—with of course, assistance and inspiration drawn from England and France and from wherever help and inspiration were to be found—a new art of the theater in a new environment and under the most alien conditions, as it seems to us of today, and making a marvelous success of the fine adventure.

This small but vivid colonial city, the capital of a British Province, had something of the importance and vital energy of a Greek colony of the days of Syracuse and Kerkura and Massilia, when the daughter carried to distant shores the best spirit, art, and energy of the Hellenic mother. Charleston was never a "small town," but, from its very beginnings, she was the germ of a large city-ideal, a capital and metropolis in embryo. There was not, therefore, that rawness and crassness of the frontier that would have been fatal to the founding of a Stage worthy the race of Congreve and Shakespere.

But, with the young energy and enterprise of her redundant source, Charleston built theaters, summoned from England and France actors and actresses of the greatest art and reputation to her "boards," and ambitiously essayed new plays and "First Nights" rivaling those of the London of her day.

Miss Willis dramatizes for us the Charleston of her prime, of this, her most brilliant era of art and, perhaps, of civilization at its most spirited hour. Her book may, therefore, be consulted by students of history and of the Stage, for the life of Charleston and kindred cities of the seaboard had tremendous influence upon the life of their hinterlands, in the region of the plantations and of the yet unborn States beyond, for here may be found, for that era, the customs and the manners that make States and communities not less than men.

The value of the book has been very greatly increased by the voluminous and meticulously prepared Index which makes it easy to refer to any incident, record, custom, character, or play that is mentioned in its pages. Attention has been paid in this Index to the value of the book as a true segment of the history of Charleston and of South Carolina.

The critics and reviewers have been very friendly to and appreciative of this work by Miss Willis. Most of them seized at once the chief value of the story of the Stage in Charleston—as history, as chronicle, as memoir. In the few extracts reproduced below from journals, and periodicals, one finds such expressions as:

"A monumental and serviceable volume," says The Outlook.

"A notable contribution to the history and literature not only of Charleston but of the American stage as well," writes The News and Courier of Charleston.

"This book," says Stark Young the well-known dramatic critic, is crowded with interesting contributions to the history of the American theater and with proud pieces of Charleston glory."

"Miss Willis," says the reviewer in the Theatre Arts Monthly, "has compiled an invaluable record of one of the earliest and most interesting theaters in this country."

"An immense amount of careful research work has gone into the making of this ample volume which offers a real contribution to the history of the stage in the United States . . . A source-book interesting alike to students of the earliest days of the American theater and delvers into the ever-alluring story of social manners and customs of the early decades of the country," comments The New York Times.

HISTORY OF WILLIAMSBURG

Something about the people of Williamsburg County, S. C., from the first settlement about 1705 until 1923. Designed to give statements of fact to those who care simply for such, as well as to lure the student who wants to learn something of Williamsburg's place in the world. Practically everything contained in this volume is based upon ancient documents or official records. Full cloth, 611 pages, with half tone illustrations and maps. Price $10.00

Brooks, U. R.

Green, Edwin L.

A HISTORY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA

This volume covers the life of the University of South Carolina from Governor Drayton's message to President Mitchell's resignation in 1913. The minutes of the Board of Trustees and the Faculty have been consulted on old points, and all other material that could throw light on any phase of the University's life has been examined. Full cloth, Octavo, 475 pages, illustrated. Price $5.00

THE INDIANS OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Although not a few books have been written in recent years upon South Carolina and her history, there is very little that can be used in the schools. And so it is hoped that there is a place for this little book—the first of a number—which tells for the boys many things they would like to know about the Indians of their own State. Cloth, 12 mo. Price .....75 cents

TWO SPEECHES OF GEORGE McDUFFIE

The Speeches of George McDuffie are almost inaccessible. These two speeches "On the Election of the President and Vice President of the United States" and "Robert Y. Hayne—A Eulogy," therefore need no apology. Cloth, 12 mo., 148 pages. Price .....75 cents

Hagood, Johnson

MEMOIRS OF THE WAR OF SECESSION AND MEMOIRS OF HAGOOD'S BRIGADE (Complete in one Volume)

During the period to which these Memoirs relate, the author, Johnson Hagood, Brigadier General, C. S. A., kept memoranda and made notes of events with which he was connected. In many instances he was furnished, by his superiors in command, with copies of their official reports of battles and sieges in which he bore a part. Cloth, 496 pages, illustrated. Price.....$2.00

Harman, H. E.

COLLECTED POEMS and THE WINDOW OF SOULS

The author has put into this book of verse the soul-work of ten years—the very joy of living. These poems were written in the idle moments of a very busy period, caught, as it were, from the spirit of inspiration that came unheralded, amid the almost incessant cares of a business career. The volume includes three stories under the general title, "The Window of Souls." Octavo, bound library style, 300 pages. Price.....$2.00

A BAR OF SONG—Poems

Bound in grey cloth with attractive cover design and numerous illustrations. Octavo, 124 pages. Price $1.50

DREAMS OF YESTERDAY—Poems

Bound in grey cloth with attractive cover design and numerous illustrations. Octavo, 110 pages. Price.....$1.50

Heyward, Jane Screven

BROWN JACKETS—Character Studies of the Carolina Coast Negro

These sketches of the Gullah Negro, a number of which have been given publicly in the author's readings, are not so much pieces of her own creative writing as they were a collaboration written out of the experiences of many friends, white and black. They carry no propaganda, unless it be the unconscious desire to present a sincere impression of the attitude existing between the two races in the Carolina Low Country. Bound in boards, 64 pages, with portrait of the author. Price $1.00

Hyer, Helen Von Kolnitz

SANTEE SONGS—Poems

This book of verse by a well known young Charleston woman will be of peculiar interest to every one familiar with the landscapes and moods of the low country. Mrs. Hyer has wisely chosen the Santee country, which perhaps more than any other section of the Carolina coastal region may be termed "characteristic" for the background of her poems, as the title indicates. Boards, 52 pages, decorated cover. Price $1.00

Jervey, Theodore D.

THE SLAVE TRADE—Slavery and Color

This work constitutes an attempt to put within short compass the main causes of the shifting sectionalism of the people of the United States. Full cloth, 344 pages, with maps and other illustrations. Price..... $2.00

Jervey, Claire

EPITAPHS FROM ST. MICHAEL'S—Charleston, S. C.

This volume, which contains many fine illustrations, in half tone, is printed on Strathmore Deckle Edge Book Paper, the plates inserted on Strathmore Japan Paper. It gives the inscriptions on the tablets and grave-stones in St. Michael's Church and Churchyard, Charleston, South Carolina. Added from the church records is a list of internments of persons to whom there are no stones. The Act establishing St. Michael's Parish was passed June 14, 1751, and the church was commenced in 1752. Gilt tops, 34 pages, and illustrations. Price..... $6.00

THE SOUTH CAROLINA READER

Written for Young South Carolinians, it is interesting also to mature readers who find it an increasingly difficult task to learn the "who, what, when, and why" of things that concern South Carolina. The author of "The South Carolina Reader" devoted years to collecting her material and had access to much rare Caroliniana. While written in simple, easy style for children, "The South Carolina Reader" will hold interest of mature readers who want to learn more of the State. 320 pages, full cloth, profusely illustrated. Price.....$1.00

THE HAPPY HUNTING GROUND

Personal experiences in the Low-Country of South Carolina. The Low-Country of South Carolina furnishes one of the finest fields for a sportsman to enjoy himself in to be found in the United States. The stories told briefly in simple style and in the ordinary language of the sportsman of the section, illustrate the modes of pursuing and taking game in South Carolina, with some account of past conditions. Boards, 83 pages and illustrations. Price.....$1.00

Seitz, Don C.

BRAXTON BRAGG—General of the Confederacy

Braxton Bragg, 1817-1876, was a Confederate General who commanded at Murfreesboro, Chickamauga and Chattanooga. Considerable controversy has gathered about him, and he was at times bitterly criticised by the South. The book is based on printed war records. Bragg's own private and public correspondence and the published reminiscences of other generals. It is almost wholly concerned with his Civil War career, and his various campaigns are followed in detail. Full cloth, Octavo, 544 pages. Price $5.00

Willis, Eola

THE CHARLESTON STAGE IN THE XVIII CENTURY

The claims of Charleston, S. C. to a prominent place in the earliest history of American drama have generally been overlooked, mainly because of the difficulty of obtaining the necessary information. The history of the Charleston stage has not only now been written, but it forms so important a part of the annals of the American theatre, that the latter are incomplete without it, for it furnishes a connecting link, hitherto lacking, in the chain of earliest plays in this country. Regular 8vo., full cloth, gold titles, 500 pages and illustrations. Price.....$5.00

Wolfe, Sam M.

THE LAW OF THE ROAD—A Hand Book for Motorists

"President Henry (Thomas P. Henry of Detroit, Mich., president of the Association) and I have had an opportunity to go over and discuss the manuscript copy of your handbook on 'The Law of the Road.'

"It seems to us that this is an important contribution to the fund of knowledge that the interstate motorist should possess, and you are to be congratulated upon preparing a volume small in size, simple in its phraseology and excellent as to text."—Letter from Ernest N. Smith, General Manager American Automotive Association. Pocket size, bound in Fabrikoid. Price.....$1.35

Second Hand Department

Having acted as agents for College and Public Libraries for over fifty years we are in a position to offer prompt, intelligent service at low rates.

Freight shipments are received weekly from London, Paris and Leipzig.

Rush orders can be filled promptly by using radio at small extra expense. This must be of special interest to Professors who wish to use foreign publications as text books.

We occupy 6 floors in our own building and carry besides new books a large second hand stock of books and periodicals in complete sets, long runs, and odd volumes.

Please call on us when in New York. We are always in the market for sets and volumes of scientific and literary periodicals and for valuable books and whole libraries. Please offer us whatever you wish to dispose of.

Librarians are requested to send us their list of duplicates.

BOOKS
STUDY OF LANGUAGES
ARE OUR SPECIALTY

The value of special and of business libraries, for large as well as for small organizations, has long been universally recognized. Language books necessarily form an important part of professional, industrial and also of individual parties' libraries, for the ability to converse with the natives of other countries, or to correspond with them in their own language, proves a potent factor in establishing and maintaining valuable international relations, in all directions of human activity. As our stock of books for such studies is unsurpassed, we invite inspection and correspondence regarding same, and shall be glad to assist in the compilation of lists that will be of help in this connection.

Prices being more or less subject to fluctuations, we here refrain from submitting our latest complete catalog of language text-books, dictionaries, grammars, travelers' manuals, conversation books, and manuals of letter-writing and of style, in foreign languages. Copies of this catalog will be mailed gratis, on application, and quotations for such items as may be specifically indicated by our correspondents will be cheerfully given. Our long established reputation for fair dealing makes the invariable securing of quotations before purchasing needless, as our customers may depend upon our filling all orders at the lowest prices compatible with conditions existing at the time.

From among the multitude of languages, represented by books in our stock, we would call attention especially to the following, our assortment of which is exceptionally comprehensive and up-to-date, the individual tongues also appearing in various combinations:

Czechoslovakian, Danish, Dutch (Hollandish), English, French, German, Hungarian, Italian, Portuguese, Roumanian, Russian, Spanish, Swedish.

Of the more important of these languages we always carry in stock technological and other scientific dictionaries containing the most modern terms employed in the arts and sciences.

We also beg to call attention to our large supply of text-books in Universal Languages, such as Esperanto and Ido, to which we are continually adding new publications.

E. STEIGER & CO.

49 MURRAY ST., NEW YORK

E. STEIGER & CO.

ESTABLISHED 1864 — 49 MURRAY STREET NEW YORK — P. O. BOX 905 CITY HALL STATION

We can allow a trade discount of 33 1/3% on the following list of our own publications; in consequence of the high quality of our text-books etc., their prices being lower than those of similar books, they have been favorably received everywhere.

We also carry a large stock of imported German publications, thoroughly up-to-date, in all fields of literature, as well as of books for the study of all foreign languages, continually striving to add to this line whatever of value may recently have been published in any part of the world, be it yet so distant.

Due to various conditions, it is not possible, at present, to quote fixed prices on all publications from other countries, but purchasers may rest assured that any order with which they favor us will be filled as expeditiously and at as low a figure as circumstances permit.

We shall be glad to mail available prospectuses and catalogues of imported books and periodicals, and to give quotations on the same.

Having continually enlarged our department for kindergarten material and kindred school supplies, we are particularly well equipped to fill large or small orders promptly.

Estimates on School Board Contracts cheerfully furnished to the Trade.

AHN'S NEW AMERICAN INTERPRETER

For Learning the English language by Self-Instruction

Ahn's

Neuer Amerikaniſcher Dolmetſcher

für Deutſche,

zum Erlernen der Engliſchen Sprache ohne Lehrer.

This is an up-to-date edition at a very low price, of our Interpreter which has been so favorably known throughout the United States and Europe, for decades, in consequence of its great practical value for Germans intending to emigrate to this country and also for immigrants not yet conversant with the English language.

The first portion of the book is devoted to the essentials of English Grammar, a thorough perusal of the remaining pages soon enabling the student to express himself properly in English and to acquire other valuable information, relative to corresponding, advertising etc.

Considering the durable binding, good quality of paper and clear type throughout its 331 pages, the price is considerably lower than that at which other, similar publications are selling.

†THE STRANGE CASE OF MISS ANNIE SPRAGG. A story that concerns the lives of a dozen characters, each seized at a moment of crisis on the night when Annie Spragg died in a Florentine Palace under miraculous circumstances. The background is Florence, London and the prairies of the Middle West. Cloth, 12mo.....$2.50

†A GOOD WOMAN. This novel completes Bromfield's study of one phase of American life. It slips into place as the keystone of an arch constructed of "The Green Bay Tree," "Possession" and "Early Autumn." "A Good Woman" is the human and moving story of Philip, a missionary who lost his faith and had to begin life over again; of his wife, Naomi; and of Mary Conyngham. But it is in the end the story of his mother, Emma Downes, because it is her shadow which lies across the lives of all three. Cloth, 12mo.....$2.50

†EARLY AUTUMN. Winner of the 1926 Pulizer Prize. This third "panel" in Mr. Bromfield's notable series of novels dealing with modern American life, tells of a New England family, outwardly rich and flourishing, but decayed at the heart. Into the unhappy tangle of their lives comes Sabine Callender and her daughter Therese. It is the patriarch of the family and a young, vigorous American boy (the son of Lily Shane) who, with the aid of the cynical Sabine, precipitate the solution of the intricate puzzle. Cloth, 12mo.....$2.00

†POSSESSION. An essentially American story and a remarkable picture of modern society, whose heroine is Ellen, cousin of the lovely Lily Shane of "The Green Bay Tree." Beginning life in a mill town of the Middle West, Ellen, without friends, money or influence, acquires in the end those things her nature demands—wealth, power, fame. Her progress takes her through many experiences in America and in Europe. But when she reaches the peak of her own building she stands there magnificent—and alone. Cloth, 12mo.....$2.50

Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York

THE GREEN BAY TREE. Is it true that no one of us ever knows the other? No husband his own wife? No mother her own daughter? It is this idea upon which this novel is built. It tells the story of two American sisters—one beautiful and lawless, the other her opposite. The setting is largely a great American steel town of the Middle West. "Rises at times so near to the proportions of a great American novel that one is tempted to describe it thus in precise terms."—E. W. Osborne, N. Y. World. Jacket in color. Cloth, 12mo..$2.00

BROWER, Harriette

BROWN, Abbie Farwell

†THE BOYHOOD OF EDWARD MACDOWELL. This story of an American boyhood, unusual and picturesque in its atmosphere and contacts, is significant in helping to interpret the quality of the music of our first great American composer. The material of the book is built largely on Mrs. MacDowell's recollections of her husband's talk and lays special stress on the years between seven and sixteen. Illustrated, Cloth, 12mo. $2.50

BROWN, Stephen J. (Editor)

THE POETRY OF IRISH HISTORY. A collection of Irish historical poems which, for choice of selection and completeness of survey of its subject, surpasses any book of its kind. The editor says: "Poetry is very useful, almost an essential, accompaniment to the dull study of history. The heroes of the past live again in song, and we realize their difficulties and achievements." Cloth, large 12mo.....$2.50

BRUNNER, Emma Beatrice

"MY WIFE, POOR WRETCH." Uncensored Episodes not in the Diary of Samuel Pepys. "Mrs. Pepys waited four centuries in ignominous oblivion to find a pen worthy to capture her poor little ghost and embody it once more into as lively a heroine as ever danced, stormed, and wept, loved, hated, laughed, hoped and despaired, through the pages of a novel. . . . Delightful. . . . one barely draws breath."—Gertrude Atherton, N. Y. Herald-Tribune. Cloth, 12mo....$2.00

DAYTON, F. E., and ADAMS, J. W.

†STEAMBOAT DAYS. A book that reads like a romance and yet is fascinating history, is this volume which tells the whole story of water transportation in America from the earliest sea coast, lake and river steamboats. A phase of American life necessarily done now if ever, for the sources of information are fast disappearing. Of John Wolcott Adams' one hundred drawings of old-time steamboats, James Montgomery Flagg says; "This is the finest collection of illustrations I have seen in any book." Cloth, 8vo..$6.00
